Ellenville 'Mafia' Gambling Link Probed

KINGSTON
An investigation into the alleged muscling-in of two New York City Mafia-type men who wanted part of the gambling take in Ellenville, is under investigation by the Ulster County Grand Jury.

It has been reported that a taxi owner in Ellenville involved in the numbers games and an owner of an Ellenville social club have been put out of the gambling business because they reportedly refused to part with 50 per cent of the take demanded by two strong-arm men from New York City.

The two Ellenville men, who police agencies have known as gamblers for sometime, both closed down their gambling enterprises after it was reported that one of them was approached by a man who said, he must give over 50 per cent of the business or else he couldn't operate.

The threat, reportedly has put both men out of the gambling business at present. Both have, in the past been arrested on gambling and other charges.

Official sources indicate that the two Ellenville men were not the only ones in Ulster County to get similar threats and Grand Jury action followed a complaint lodged by an attorney for one of the men threatened.

According to criminal statutes, gambling is not a crime unless any of the persons involved benefit monetarily from the action. It reportedly is a crime, if, according to gambling jargon, anybody "cuts" the game.

The Grand Jury began hearing testimony about the alleged Mafia takeover on Thursday.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Traficanti Jr. presented his evidence and five witnesses were reported to have testified at the Ulster County Court House.

Subpoenas were served in Ellenville during the past two weeks for the Grand Jury appearances.

Traficanti was not available for comment.

The Grand Jury which began its duties in October, also made a partial report Thursday morning, handing up one indictment naming three men who are charged with an armed robbery of a Lake Katrine E-Z Shop.

The Grand Jury reportedly followed this report with the hearing of more testimony in the Ellenville gambling incidents.

It was indicated that the Grand Jury's consideration of the matter is an exploratory effort.

Violence Closes High School in Dutchess

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Four black youths were arrested Friday, three of them charged with inciting a riot after violence broke out at Roosevelt High School here.

The school was closed at midday and weekend athletic events were cancelled following the melee, described by a sheriff's deputy as "definitely a racial disturbance."

The cause of the incident remained under investigation, but officials said the trouble erupted in fistfights between white and black students.

A spokesman at St. Francis Hospital in nearby Poughkeepsie said five or six white youths were treated for minor cuts and bruises but none were admitted.

The four youths arrested were all black students at Roosevelt, police said. Supt. Kenneth Dubray closed the school after 25 Dutchess County Sheriff's Deputies and a contingent of State Police were called in to quell what was described by deputies as a "riot" involving more than 100 youths battling with fists and weapons.

Dutchess County Detective Chief Charles Borchers said the incident "was definitely a racial disturbance," adding that he felt there were "outside agitators."

Borchers said students from Poughkeepsie High School had Only 43 of Roosevelt's 1,100 charged with possession of a dangerous weapon, and Williams and Boone with inciting to riot. They were ordered held on $3,000 bail each.

The four were remanded to Poughkeepsie, Elliot J. Lewis, 16, of 41 Falkkill Ave., Poughkeepsie; Mark Williams, 17, of pleading innocent before Town Creek Road, Poughkeepsie; and Justice Harold Mangold in Richard Boone, 16, of Salt Point Hyde Park. He continued their cases until Tuesday.

Police said switchblade $6,000 bail on charges of possession of a dangerous weapon and inciting to riot. Lewis was scene of the disturbance.

Wage Boards Meet Minus Labor Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two boards responsible for setting wage and price guidelines for Phase 2 of the Nixon administration anti-inflation fight have held their first meetings, minus the services of three members representing organized labor.

A three-judge panel, meanwhile, ruled Friday that the 90-day wage-price-rent freeze imposed as part of Phase 1 is legal.

And government reports on two major economic indicators, the Gross National Product and the Consumer Price Index, brought bad news as well as good for the administration.

The ruling upholding the freeze came several hours after the White House announced the membership of the Pay Board and Price Commission that will set Phase 2 guidelines.

The judges said the freeze was "in conformance" with the legislation under which President Nixon imposed it on Aug. 15.

The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and the Butcher Workmen of North America, AFL-CIO, had sought an injunction against the freeze.

Labor leaders, including AFL-CIO President George Meany had expressed unhappiness with the freeze, but Meany agreed to serve on the Pay Board after extended consultations with the White House.

See Editorial on page 6.

However, Meany and two other AFL-CIO officials were absent when the Pay Board held its first meeting Friday.

A spokesman said the time of the meeting had been changed too often and the AFL-CIO officials "just couldn't change their schedules again."

The others who stayed away were Presidents Floyd Smith of the International Association of Machinists and I.W. Abel of the United Steelworkers.

President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers and President Frank E. Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters were present. The UAW and the Teamsters are the nation's two largest independent unions.

The Pay Board will be headed by U.S. District Judge George H. Boldt of Seattle, one of five public members on the board. The remaining five members are representatives of business.

President Nixon named Dean C. Jackson Grayson Jr. of Southern Methodist University's business school to head the seven-member Price Commission.

In a meeting with the panels, Nixon did not say whether he wants specific percentage guidelines for wage and price increases after the freeze expires Nov. 13, aids said. They said Nixon stressed instead that "the post-freeze system requires individuals and decisions that are fair and just and will invoke public support."

The Commerce Department reported, meanwhile, that the nation's economic growth slowed considerably during the three months ending Sept. 30.

The department said the Gross National Product, total output of the nation's goods and services, advanced at a 3 per cent annual rate in terms of non-inflated dollars.

Economists consider that rate of growth too slow to cut into unemployment, which has hovered around 6 per cent since the first of the year.

They say at least a 4 per cent growth rate is needed to start making inroads into the jobless rate.

Somewhat more heartening for the administration, were figures accompanying the GNP report indicating that inflation during the period was at a 3.3 per cent rate, down from last quarter's 4.25 per cent rate and the lowest since the second quarter of 1967.

"We have moved along a little more rapidly than I would have expected a couple of months ago," Dr. Paul McCracken, head of the President's Council of Economic Advisors said of the slowdown in inflation. "We are pleased."

But McCracken acknowledged that the over-all GNP growth was "less than the ongoing gains that we have to achieve."

The administration also was somewhat pleased with a report from the Labor Department that a 1 per cent decline in retail food prices and a similar drop in auto prices held the over-all increase in the Consumer Price Index (CPI) during September to two-tenths of 1 per cent.

The increase represents a 2.4 per cent annual rise in prices. Prices for housing, clothing, medical care and recreation increased during the month, the first full month since the price freeze took effect.

President Nixon has said that wages and prices will be controlled until the rate of inflation can be held to between 2 and 3 per cent annually.

City Man Critically Injured

Route 209 Mishap Kills Pedestrian

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON
Separate car-pedestrian accidents in Ulster County Friday night have left one man dead and another seriously injured.

A 55-year-old Ellenville man was killed when he walked into the path of a car traveling on Route 209 in the Town of Wawarsing.

Earlier Friday evening, a 53-year-old city man sustained severe injuries when he was struck by a car while attempting to cross Wurts Street.

The Route 209 fatality occurred at 9:15 p.m. Friday, with troopers from the Ellenville barracks investigating the mishap along with Ulster County Coroner Arthur A. Chipp.

Police reported that Lester Baldwin, 55, of 5 North Main Street, Ellenville, stepped in front of a southbound auto driven by John Arbogast, 27, of 8 Park Street, Ellenville. Police said Baldwin entered the highway from the west-side shoulder.

Baldwin was struck by the right front fender of the car and thrown some 80 feet off the pavement. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Chipp.

Chipp ordered the body removed to the Ulster County morgue. The driver was not held responsible.

The accident, which occurred about eight-tenths of a mile north of Route 44.55, took place at 9:15 p.m. Friday.

Investigating were Zone Commander William L. Shurtler, BCI Investigator Michael J. Mahoney and troopers Douglas H. Dymond and Walter E. Hubert. Baldwin's death was the 47th, ute switch.

highway fatality in Ulster County this year and the fifth involving a car and pedestrian.

The 47th highway fatality of 1970 occurred December 20, involving a car and pedestrian.

George Joe, 53, of Rondout Gardens Apartments, Kingston, was seriously injured Friday night when he was struck by a car while attempting to cross Wurts Street near Union Street in Kingston.

Joe sustained severe head injuries and multiple fractures and abrasions. Benedictine Hospital authorities today said his condition was poor.

The driver of the car, Lillian Esopus, told City Police that she was unable to avoid striking the man after he walked into the path of her car.

Street (Route 9W) hill when the accident occurred.

Joe was rushed to Benedictine Hospital by Fatums Ambulance.

The driver of the car was not charged. The accident occurred at 7:18 p.m.

Woodstock Town Police, meanwhile, reported injuries sustained by five Pennsylvania teenagers when their car ran off the Bearsville-Wittenburg Road at 12:03 a.m. today.

Injured were: Edmund Rhodes, 19; Cynthia Lynch, 16; Lewis Grubb, 16; Victoria Rhodes, 16 and Gregory Odner, 18, all of the Pennsylvania community of Brynathyn.

The five were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for abrasions and contusions.

Four teenagers were injured at 7:40 p.m. Friday when their car overturned on Mountain Rest Road in New Paltz. The three, from Yonkers, were treated at Kingston Hospital.

New Court Nominees ... A Telephone Poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within minutes of President Nixon's announcement of his two Supreme Court nominees White House aides were on the phone polling lawyers around the country for their opinions of the choices, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, according to an informed source.

The lawyers were asked to play their assessments of the Richmond, Va., attorney and the Assistant Attorney General back to the White House by 10:00 p.m. EDT that Thursday night, said the source, a prominent attorney who asked those names not be used.

A White House spokesman said there would be no comment on the report.

Nixon had announced his decision to name Powell and Rehnquist in a national radio and television broadcast that ended at 7:45 p.m. EDT.

Qualified legal and congressional sources said the President was intent on naming Herschel H. Friday and Mildred L. Lillie to the court until an adverse American Bar Association report forced a last-minute switch.

Bayh said he was concerned what Rehnquist's attitude on the subject was now that he is headed for the Supreme Court.

President Nixon made it a point Friday to tell women's groups, who lobbied for a female nominee, the door was open for a woman Supreme Court justice.

"I know a great number in-leaked by the committee."

Although there was no word on the lawyers' assessments, comment did come from other points, notably Capitol Hill.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., indicated at a news conference there will be a close look taken at Rehnquist. Bayh said he already had had the opportunity to work with Powell and was impressed with "his intellect and his dedication."

Council Holds Hearing On Apartment Proposal

KINGSTON — A public hearing was held Friday night by the Kingston Common Council at city hall on a proposal by Route 9 Corp. to build a $1.8 million apartment complex in the Uptown Urban Renewal Project.

Alderman John P. Heitzman (D-First Ward), who represents the area of city in which the project is located, spoke against the housing proposal.

Heitzman contended the city did not need more apartment complexes at this time, since previously proposed projects had not yet been started. He made reference to Route 9 Corp.'s other project off Flatbush Avenue, and to the Hess apartments of Fairview Avenue and plans for apartments at Lawton Park.

Heitzman made very much the same points at the regular meeting of the Common Council Oct. 5.

James V. Andretta, president of Route 9 Corp., spoke in favor of the project, calling it an asset to the city.

Council action is expected in November.

Route 9 Corp. has been approved by both the Common Council and the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency which owns the land as a qualified and eligible developer.

Plans call for the construction of 140 apartments on a 10-acre site bounded by Esopus Creek on the north, the Penn-Central Railroad tracks on the south, and the relocated Washington Avenue on the west.

The cost of the land has been set at $95,000. Plans call for completion of the project by July of 1973.

British Troops Kill Two Belfast Women

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops shot and killed two women in Belfast early today. The army said the women, aged 19 and 30, were dressed in men's clothing and had fired at the soldiers from a speeding car.

The troops returned the fire and the car crashed into a wall. An army spokesman said a third woman in the car was injured by flying glass. A fourth woman was taken to a hospital from the scene with bullet wounds in her leg, but it was not clear whether she had been in the car.

The army gave this account of the incident: A nail bomb and two shots were aimed at soldiers from a car in Cape Street at 4:25 a.m. "Accurate fire was returned and a 'man' in the back was believed hit," the spokesman said. "The car continued for a short while then crashed into a wall."

Civilians surrounded the vehicle and refused to allow the soldiers near it. After five minutes, the car was handed over to the patrol.

"Inside were three people," said the spokesman. "Two were dead, in the back. All were women. The two in the back wore jeans, boots and men's jackets."

The two in the back had been shot dead, the army said. The shooting brought Northern Ireland's official death toll in two years of bloodshed to 129.

The army said it was believed the first time that British troops had shot a woman dead in the fighting.

Joe Cahill, commander of the Belfast wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, said in a newspaper interview two weeks ago that women were carrying bombs for the IRA and were demanding to be employed as snipers. Twenty-nine British soldiers have been killed by snipers in the fighting in Northern Ireland so far.

Pictures of Belfast IRA women training with pistols and submachine guns have appeared in newspapers.

McCaig said that he wanted to take the office of supervisor to the people and therefore would hold neighborhood meetings in various districts of the town on Saturday mornings. This would afford everyone the opportunity of discussing problems with the supervisor on a regular basis. An additional informal meeting to include the superintendent of highways and councilmen will be scheduled for town hall on a weekly basis. It would be in addition to the regular Town Board meeting.

Implementation of a program for demolition of abandoned and hazardous buildings in the town. Town officials would have to work closely with the County Legislature on this problem. Parcels taken over by the county for unpaid taxes would be involved. The need for legislators to attend town board meetings as previously recommended is obvious.

In summation, McCaig noted that to date, the Republicans have run a high-level campaign, sticking to the issues and offering proposals to better the community.

McCaig said that the changes which he proposes are the result of his visiting various areas of the town during the campaign. This has given him a first-hand knowledge of the problems and needs of the people.

The plan includes the following:

- Use of the town clerk's office as a central point to post job opportunities for young people. McCaig found many young people to be desirous of part-time or weekend work, while they are in school or college.
- Town government should assist in matching the needs of the community with the talents and desires of youth, he said.
- Changing the town board meeting night to a time other than the second Thursday of each month. This will eliminate a conflict in the meeting night with the Ulster County Legislature.

U.S., South Viets Crush Planned Red Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet forces are pursuing the third named Viet Cong-North Viet mixed Viet Cong-North Viet force have crushed a planned three-month offensive along the Cambodian border and dealt North Vietnamese units a six-month setback, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh claimed today.

Minh, commander of South Vietnamese forces in the region around Saigon, said in an interview that the North Vietnamese 7th Division, which threw 4,000 to 5,000 men into the four-week campaign, lost 2,200 killed and had been forced to retreat.

"I don't believe they'll come back," Minh said. "If they want to do something, it will take them six more months."

Minh said enemy orders captured on the battlefield indicated that the North Vietnamese high command called for a three-month offensive on the frontier 60 to 90 miles north of Saigon. It began Sept. 25, but tapered off less than three weeks later.

Two of the three regiments in the North Vietnamese 7th Division set short their operation along Route 22 in South Vietnam and retreated deep into Cambodia, while South Vietnamese troops toward the border, Minh said. He also said that 2,000 troops of the North Vietnamese 5th Division, committed to a push around Krek inside Cambodia, withdrew about 15 miles eastward several days ago.

Minh added that "in the last 24 hours there have been no mortar fire or rockets on Route 22," the key supply route for South Vietnamese troops operating in Cambodia.

The route, cut during the early part of the enemy offensive, has been secured, Minh said. But he said it would take about a week to repair the roadway so that convoys could travel the back.

The 24-hour period ending at daybreak today was the first time in the last 29 days that no enemy shells hit Fire Base Pace, just south of the border, the only U.S. ground troops in the border fighting, were pulled out of Pace on Friday.

Meanwhile, a South Vietnamese military spokesman said Saigon troops had made two contacts in a 3,000-man pursuit of the enemy's 33rd Regiment about 40 miles east of the capital, while South Vietnamese troops sent a letter to the leaders of his Xa Hoi Moi (New Society) Party saying he intended to resign his seat in the lower house to protest Thieu's one-man election victory.

He said that the Thieu regime was built on "conditions which are unconstitutional and unlawful, without the support of the population."

Five green troops of the mixed Viet Cong-North Viet name unit, ages 15 to 17, were reported killed in the first contact Friday. South Vietnamese losses were put at three killed.

Meanwhile, a man dressed in the uniform of a South Vietnamese air force officer tried to assassinate a top aide to President Nguyen Van Thieu but was stopped by alert bodyguards, government sources said today.

Security guards riding in a jeep behind the car of Gen. Dang Van Quang knocked over the motorcycle driven by the would-be assassin Friday night. He was dressed in a lieutenant's uniform and had a pistol in his hand when the guards' jeep knocked him down and he was seized, sources said.

City Beat

CAMPAIGNING — With Election Day only ten days away, both sides are digging in for a last ditch effort. Only this year, in the city, there are three sides. Democrat, Republican and Conservative. The latter refers to Bernie Singer, the Conservative Party chairman who's running for alderman-at-large with Republican endorsement.

Singer, it seems, is picking up steam thanks to a host of Conservative enrollees who are concentrating on only one thing: Get Bernie elected.

The Conservatives think that their man may indeed pose a serious challenge to Bob Gallo, his Democratic-Liberal opponent.

Gallo has been the beneficiary of landslide elections, on top, every time he has run. Ray Garraghan won by 2,600 votes in 1967 and carried Gallo in with him. Frank Koenig and Gallo ran at about the same 3,900 vote plurality in 1969.

That's what the "vote for the team" campaign theme is all about. Frank wants Bobby back. He could have very rough going in the Common Council without him.

THE BUSINESSMEN — The Central Broadway Businessmen are becoming more than just a thorn in the side of the Koenig Administration. Their demand for a special meeting of the Council to pass the mayor's promises to them is considered a distinct threat to the "team" concept.

The reason is rather obvious. Koenig sent his proposals for parking lots and a study of the area, to the Council on Sept. 29. As we understand it, the team functions thus: Koenig sends and Gallo delivers.

Gallo, to date, hasn't and it doesn't do a thing for that "team" image. A special meeting of the Council, called by the Aldermen, would only make things worse.

"Heavy pressure" is being exerted on the businessmen to get them to pull in their horns. The promise is for passage in November, after election. The businessmen, who saw the legislation held in committee in October, for some reason don't buy that offer.

The deal now being worked on is this: a public commitment from a majority of the aldermen in favor of the legislation in lieu of a special meeting.

CAMPAIGN BUS — Mike Perry, the Seventh Ward Democrat, moved from the chairmanship of the Council's railroad and Bus Committee to the position of manager of the bus company in July. A few eyebrows were raised then but that's about all.

More than a few hackles are being raised by Perry's latest maneuver in regard to the buses. Stuck on the side of the buses are campaign stickers which urge the viewer to vote for Mike (Honey Brown) Perry. If it takes nerve to get elected, Perry's got it made.

Awaits Action

By Grand Jury

KINGSTON

Charged with second degree burglary by police, Robert Joseph Fenton Jr., 27, of 88 East Chester Street, was committed to the county jail Friday to await action of the grand jury following a hearing before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Fenton, who acted as his own attorney at the hearing, was arrested the night of Oct. 19 after he reportedly was surprised in the home of Beatrice Bogert at 111 Green Street. Police said drawers in bedroom furniture had been ransacked.

Woman Hurt, Driver Cited

KINGSTON

A two-car rear-end collision at Prince Street and Broadway Friday injured a woman motorist and resulted in a summons for a taxicab driver.

Police reported Dorene J. Cooney, 26, of Route 7, Box 138A, Kingston, stopped to allow another car to enter the intersection, when her car was hit in the rear by a vehicle driven by Thomas J. Koeppe, 19, of 41 Brewster Street.

The woman complained of a pain in the neck and was taken to Benedictine Hospital, police reports noted.

Supreme Court Nominees Are Judicial Conservatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court could be expected to take a harder stand on criminal law if Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist are confirmed to take the seats vacated by Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan.

President Nixon, in announcing their nominations, described Powell and Rehnquist as judicial conservatives and indicated he hopes they will redress "the balance of power" within society back toward "the peace forces."

This is "law-and-order" talk. Their records and background indicate that both the soft-spoken, aristocratic Powell and the younger Rehnquist are applicants of an administration with that aim in mind.

Powell is close politically to Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Rehnquist to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Deputy Attorney Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst. Goldwater and Byrd, to a lesser extent, are virtual folk-heroes to conservatives. Kleindienst is one of the toughest law-and-order exponents in the Justice Department.

Neither Powell nor Rehnquist has been a judge, so there are no rulings and opinions to probe for insights into their philosophies. The best sources, then, would appear to be what they have said and written.

Powell, a 64-year-old Virginian, said in 1965 as he stepped down as president of the American Bar Association: "The key problem is one of balance. While the safeguards of a fair trial must surely be preserved, the right of society in general and of each individual in particular to be protected from crime must never be subordinated to other rights."

In a recent article he described as "standard leftist propaganda" allegations that repression of civil liberties is widespread. He supported government wiretapping of "the radical left" without a warrant and said it is "sheer nonsense" to claim that dissent is suppressed and free speech denied. This suggests that Powell may not be so chary as Harlan of electronic surveillance or as sensitive as Black to allegations of threats to free speech.

Rehnquist, 47, has been instrumental in developing the Justice Department's position that the president has an inherent right to use wiretaps against domestic radicals. He has called radical protesters "new barbarians" and once criticized the Supreme Court as lacking "common sense" in criminal cases.

Like Powell, then, he probably will support the administration as it seeks to win court endorsement of its wiretap policies. There is no sign, either, that the 1st Amendment will find in him a new champion.

As they reach the threshold of the court, the old liberal majority once headed by Earl Warren as chief justice is already shattered. Only Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall remain of the framers of landmark rulings safeguarding the rights of people accused of crime.

In the center position, with considerable voting influence, are Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White, dissenters from major criminal-law rulings but occasional supporters of the Warren majority on selected issues.

On the right are Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun, both put on the bench by Nixon and consistently reluctant to upset a conviction, invalidate a legislative act or chart a new judicial course.

Powell and Rehnquist appear more closely in tune with Burger and Blackmun than with either of the two other groupings. Their nomination makes emergence of a "Nixon" court that much more imminent.

President's 'Trick or Trick' Game Fails American Bar Association

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, a man of many surprises, may have played a "trick-or-trick" game on the American Bar Association in choosing two nominees for Supreme Court vacancies.

In this month of Halloween, Nixon nine days ago submitted to the ABA Judiciary Committee names of six potential nominees. The list did not include his ultimate selections, William H. Rehnquist of Wisconsin and Lewis F. Powell Jr. of Virginia.

After Nixon made his picks known in a television-radio address Thursday night, a knowledgeable White House source said the President had Rehnquist and Powell in mind before submitting any names to the premiere trade association of the organized bar.

Asked why Nixon's ultimate selections were omitted, the source suggested there was little point in submitting a full roster of possible nominees since the initial list of six was reported publicly, by his reckoning, an hour or two after submission to the ABA.

On Wednesday, the ABA committee voted to withhold approval from two of the six on the Nixon list—the two the panel apparently deemed most likely to be nominated. Those decisions quickly became public knowledge.

Within minutes after Nixon spoke Thursday night, the White House released a statement by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell terminating the administration's agreement to consult with the bar group on Supreme Court nominations. In explaining the action, Mitchell likened the ABA committee to a sieve.

The turn of events suggest either that the ABA committee trapped itself or that Nixon and Mitchell trapped the ABA in order to find an escape hatch from an unprecedented consultative collaboration.

In either event, the scenario was appropriate for the trick-or-trick season.

The truth presumably will become evident in time. For the moment, it is sufficient to say that Nixon reserved his options and initiative—the element of surprise—until he appeared before TV cameras and radio microphones in his Oval Office.

The ABA did not stand alone as the source of pre-announcement speculation about Nixon's choices.

Senate sources said Wednesday that Nixon very shortly would nominate two of the six on the list given the ABA. They were identified as Mildred Lillie of Los Angeles and Herschel Friday of Little Rock.

If it was Nixon's intention from the start to snare critics in selecting Supreme Court nominees, he confounded just about everyone in the process.

General Blocks Commissary Reform

ANDERSON 20 MONTHS AHEAD OF JURY

Jack Anderson told on Feb. 13, 1970, how the federal government was investigating Martin Tananbaum, owner of Yonkers racetrack, "to determine whether he raised illegal campaign funds for New York City Controller Abe Beame."

Anderson told of allegations that Tananbaum and others had disguised their contributions to the 1965 Beame mayoralty campaign so they could deduct them as business expenses. This Oct. 19, a federal grand jury indicted a Brooklyn judge who had run the campaign for Beame. The indictment named the late Martin Tananbaum as the judge's most prominent co-conspirator in a scheme to funnel money into the Beame campaign.

WASHINGTON — Lt. Gen. Joseph Heiser, the Army commissary czar, has scrapped commissary reforms that would save GI customers an estimated $35 million.

The savings will go, instead, to the food brokers who generated a flurry of letters and brought political pressure on Heiser to kill the reform plan.

Under the present system, the brokers collect middlemen's fees, ranging from 5 to 40 per cent, on sales to military commissaries around the world. This generous take-off comes out of the pockets of the GI customers.

We have already exposed in a series of columns how brokers have courted, corrupted and bribed commissary officers to get their products on the shelves. To stop these abuses, the Army conducted a $500,000 study which produced urgent recommendations for reforms.

But apparently, the Army may as well have saved the $500,000. For the reform plan, which would virtually eliminate brokers' fees, has been abandoned by the balding, beribboned Heiser. Such brokers as Dixon Marketing, Inc., of Kingston, N.C., urged suppliers to write Congress and the Pentagon. The letters showered down not only upon Heiser but upon the House Armed Forces and Small Business Committees.

The committee staffs arranged an October 1 meeting in Heiser's flag-draped office. A week later, on October 8, he served notice that there are "no present plans" to adopt the reform program. Thus he set aside previous approvals from the Army's Comptroller General, Judge Advocate General, Inspector General and Personnel Director.

Honorary Lobbyist

It is hardly rare for a Pentagon brass hat to yield to industry. But there's a more brazen side to Heiser's romance with the food brokers' lobby he is supposed to regulate.

Believe it or not, Heiser is an Honorary President of the lobby. The brokers are united in an organization called the Defense Supply Association, which is headed by Andrew McNamara, a retired Lieutenant General and former Quartermaster General.

Heiser not only is an Honorary President of the organization but writes cozy "Dear General Andy" letters to its chief lobbyist. Once, Heiser even allowed McNamara to lecture the top commissary brass.

This occurred on March 8, 1971, according to a confidential memo written by Heiser's management analysis chief, Col. John M. Miller, who filed it away apparently to protect his own role.

The memo states that a private briefing was arranged for McNamara "at the direction of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics (Heiser)." The memo goes on to tell how Heiser had his top hands listen while McNamara berated "the Army's tendency to send other than the 'top man' to participate" in the food lobby's activities.

As if to soothe McNamara, Heiser's office incredibly began to solicit 35 members at the Pentagon in the food brokers' lobby. A weekly bulletin from Heiser's office urged Pentagon employees to sign up with the lobby, declaring: "Association membership provides an excellent means of keeping abreast of logistical developments as well as participating in periodic social activities and... developing new contacts."

Under such pressure, it's small wonder that some of Heiser's staff members have just about given up attempting to reform the corruption-ridden commissary system — a $2 billion-a-year business that has been condemned by the Army's own investigators.

FOOTNOTE: In a 90-minute interview with my associate Les Whitten, Heiser insisted he is trying to help GI families that shop at military commissaries. He claimed the briefing for McNamara was proper but said the solicitation for membership in the lobby organization was done without his knowledge. He allowed himself to be made an Honorary President of the lobby, he said, because he thought he could contribute to Army buying efficiency. As for the reform plan, he said he remained unconvinced that it was best for the commissary buyer. He added with evident sincerity: "It will hurt if you all indicate that a guy named Heiser, representing the Army, is hurting the commissary customer. I'm here to do what good I can do."

Wine Swindle?

America's vintners are popping their corks over the French wine industry's insistence that France have its wine and drink it, too.

The French government has put up such stiff regulation on American wines that none get to France. Yet most of Europe's $140 million in wine exports to the U.S. come from France.

On top of this, the French bottlers usually send over only 23.6 ounces per bottle. This is advertised as a "fifth," though it is short two ounces. U.S. winemakers by law must put a full 25.6 ounces in their bottles. Thus, American winebibbers must buy 13 bottles of European wine to get the same volume as contained in 12 bottles of American vintage.

Next Tuesday, the Internal Revenue Service will hold hearings to determine whether to require European wine men to squeeze out a full measure of grapes if they want to send their wine to America.

Kitheart Is the Name

The name is Kitheart — Larry E. Kitheart — not Kithcat or Kitchart or Kithart as it was spelled three different ways in a one paragraph story in Thursday's Freeman.

The man is running for the county legislature from the city and we don't think any type gremlins should play havoc with his name.

We apologize to the candidate.

Halloween Is Near

Young boys and girls have discovered that they can have their Halloween fun without damaging their neighbors' property or perhaps causing them bodily injury. A minimum of vandalism has been experienced during the Halloween season in recent years.

Adults recognize that high spirits are generated by this swift-moving age. They now take precautions to see that enough safety valves exist—in games, parties or some other form of group activity. A special responsibility rests upon parents, but others cooperate in trying to direct youthful energies along proper lines.

Nobody wants to take the fun out of life, and the Halloween season has become traditionally a time for pranks and gaiety. But neither is there a desire to revert to the uncivilized practices of the early Druids, who actually thought that Satan called together the wicked souls on Halloween.

There is a happy medium, and young people know the difference between harmless pranks and wrong-doing. But they need to be reminded, and helped.

Federal Austerity Needed

Notably missing from Phase Two of the President's economic controls is any mention of austerity on the part of the federal government. It is an interesting omission because the heavy budget deficit of last year, the repeat performance for this fiscal year and the likelihood of more to come all help fuel inflation by expanding the nation's money supply.

The idea appears to be that monetary and fiscal policies must be used to promote economic expansion as long as unemployment remains at unacceptable levels. It will be up to other tools, principally controls on the private sector, to contain inflation.

Eminent economists of various persuasions can be found who will argue for or against the economic policies now in force, as well as the effect of the huge federal deficit.

The question, in the long run, may evolve more around public confidence than economic theories. With it the administration can achieve its goals; without it, the road ahead will be rough.

Heart Attacks and Drugs

The number of drug-habituated youths suffering heart attacks is causing doctors to suspect that the abuse of certain drugs can cause very serious heart damage.

Large amounts of amphetamine, for instance, as noted in a Seattle patient in her early 20's causes the heart to work extremely hard and constricts the arteries. The heart is thus deprived of its nourishment and a vital area of muscle destroyed. It makes young people old with arteriosclerosis. Infections of the heart are also common, as are inflammation of the liver and hepatitis from drug use.

Many addicts die from medical complications of the habit before they even consult or reach a doctor.

The serious illnesses caused by drugs often require long, expensive hospitalization. Drug users are often paupers or will not reveal a parent's name. The Seattle girl thus cost federal and state taxpayers $1,000 for her stay in the coronary care unit, after she had come to the emergency room of the University of Washington hospital with agonizing chest and shoulder pains. With heart infections, which require open heart surgery, the poverty drug-users nick the public for several thousand dollars.

Is a "little pleasure" worth all that pain and money and a life of invalidism? Drugs must be stamped out, like typhoid fever. Along with crime and ruined lives, these added reasons make it imperative.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Presently, only six of the 14 possible Democratic presidential candidates are serious factors in the 1972 race. Some of the six probably can have only negative impact, meaning they can hurt somebody else but not win nomination for themselves.

Three are in what one experienced party observer calls Category One, candidates with either good or at least some chance to take the prize. The names: Sen. Edmund Muskie, Sen. Edward Kennedy, Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

The other three are in Category Two, prospects with enough potential strength to be telling factors in the nomination struggle but not likely to win. The list: Mayor John Lindsay of New York, Sen. Henry Jackson, Sen. George McGovern.

No seasoned analysts in the Democratic party are perceiving any serious, in the sense of decisive, role in the 1972 battle for any of the other eight currently on the roster of "mentioned" or active candidates.

That list includes: Fred Harris of Oklahoma, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, U.S. Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, Shirley Chisholm of New York, William Anderson of Tennessee, former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, and Mayor Samuel Yorty of Los Angeles.

New sweeps of the country by professional political appraisers turn up few surprises. Muskie still is the man to beat. Kennedy is widely believed to have a real chance but only if the party reaches convention time next summer with no prominent front-runner.

Checks on party leader sentiment provide hints that Humphrey may be fading somewhat.

It has become the stock thing to say but it is still true: Muskie shows a continuing resilience that enables him to ride out his difficulties and keep moving. The newest lump-sum endorsement from the Missouri contingent, Gov. Warren Hearnes and Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas Eagleton, is the sort of event that sustains the impression of his forward motion.

Jackson's potential in the South and Southwest is an established part of the story. The general judgment is that it makes him a factor to be dealt with, but not a likely winner. Any successful undercutting of his southern strength by a mischievous Gov. George Wallace would gravely diminish Jackson's impact on the race.

McGovern stays low in the polls. But some politicians think the dedication of his followers, especially young ones, could drum out primary votes in percentages up to twice that of his poll status.

Lindsay is, of course, the new and volatile element in Category Two. His charisma and his proven ability to campaign on the tube and on the sidewalk make him a man all other bidders fear. He could be particularly hurtful to McGovern.

You can't find it for the others. Harris isn't catching on. You need a telescope to spot Proxmire, Congressman Anderson (former nuclear submarine commander), and Sam Yorty.

Mills could have limited effect in the South in states that want to hold awhile. McCarthy still has something going but it's elusive. Mrs. Chisholm, the black candidate from New York, could win some delegates in a few black areas and deprive the more liberal white candidates of possible black support.

From the newest readings, if you were a cautious bettor you'd have to wager it's going to be either Muskie or Kennedy, with Lindsay far back on the outside, capable of a threatening burst. The others either won't count seriously at all, or they can hurt Muskie without aiding themselves.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Consumer Confidence Is Key

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, has privately, put his pencil on the impact in 1972 of President Nixon's Phase II anti-inflation program. His forecasts have been surprisingly close in the past and here they are for the future:

Mr. McCracken starts with a subtle fact. Our industrial economy has been pressured downward for longer than in many years. The Federal Reserve Board Industrial Production Index, significantly falling to this year's lowest in August, still stagnates around the 1970 level, down almost four per cent from 1969. Never before since World War II have we had two lackluster years back-to-back.

Mr. McCracken attributes much of this to industry's decreased investment in machinery, equipment, etc. He's of the school that heavily emphasizes capital in-vestment's impact and points to the good years of 1962 when this advanced nine per cent and 1965 when the advance was 13 per cent.

In 1970-71 there's been a horrendous 13 per cent decline. The excesses of the 1960's, however, have been absorbed. The better base for the beginning of a new capital-goods investment cycle has been laid.

The council chairman is counting on Mr. Nixon's proposed investment tax credit and liberalized depreciation allowance to stimulate the cycle, if enacted. Mr. McCracken's guess is a capital-goods investment gain in 1972 of about five per cent above 1971.

He's convinced that, with the two not-so-bright years behind us, the 1972 FRB Industrial Production Index should be up at least 6.5 per cent. If Mr. McCracken proves to be right, I find this would be the best performance in the vital prosperity, jobs, etc., area since 1966. But it would be substantially below other recovery years like 1955, 1959, and 1962, and nothing like the average 10 per cent gain in the boom years 1965-66.

The President gets his figures from Mr. McCracken and when Mr. Nixon speaks of 1972 as "a very good year" this is what he must mean.

The gross national product should advance around $145 billion. That's a $90 billion gain over Mr. McCracken's estimate for 1971.

Mr. McCracken's problem, however, is that he has to wash out the inflation effect that permeates the economy like gas bubbles of putrefaction in a muddy marsh.

Each three per cent increase in the price level "increases" the gross national product about $6 billion in an unreal way. That's Mr. McCracken's figure and I, for one, have never before heard that calculation authoritatively given.

Prices have gone up about five per cent this year. Applying Mr. McCracken's price increase washout, he estimates our real 1971 growth at not more than three per cent. And here enters Mr. McCracken's price-forecasting problem.

On former Council Chairman Arthur Okun's retirement he conceded that the "government itself has been 'the major cause' of the inflation by pumping so much deficit money into the economy — the first government official to make so open an admission. Mr. McCracken foresees — this politically profitable abuse continuing but, right or wrong, is convinced prices will rise not more than three per cent during 1972 and that the real growth will be about 5.5 per cent.

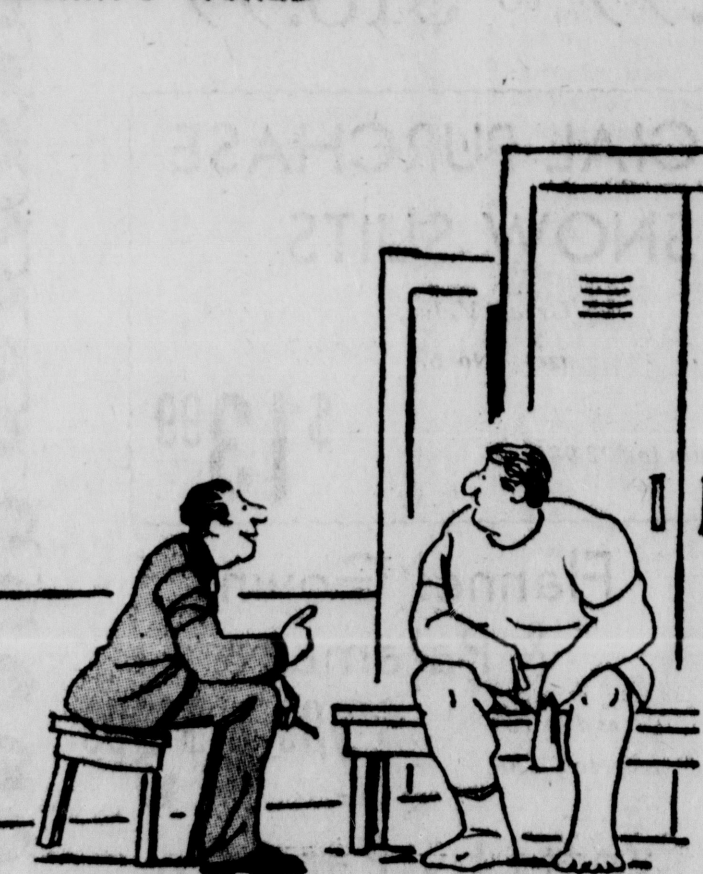

He agrees, however, that the main energy must be from increased consumer spending. The ratio of capital spending to consumer output rose steeply from 1963 to 1966. This is a critical ratio and it has now fallen to a level as low as the late 1950s.

The confidence factor — the public's increased willingness to spend and to make commitments — is absolutely decisive, as this column attempted to document on September 22. As stated, its importance is unique in all the world because our standard of living is unique. An astounding 40 per cent of everything the public buys is postponable. Only about 60 per cent is essential and not postponable. And forecaster McCracken freely admits that this confidence factor is the great impediment he faces.

So does President Nixon. Economic cycles do not pay 48 much attention to election years as we may imagine. If they did, there would be election-year booms here and everywhere in the world. The confidence factor will be the ultimate key — and both Mr. Nixon and Mr. McCracken know it.

TEEN SCENE

When was the last time you became really, really hungry? It's an experience most of us have never known. The nearest most of us have ever gotten is being stranded miles from the nearest hot-dog stand while hitch-hiking, or having to make a bag of potato chips last for breakfast, lunch and dinner at a music festival. When your dieting, even passing by a restaurant with the delicious fumes wafting out is enough to start the stomach grinding like a washing machine agitator.

Most of us are fortunate to know, however, that before too long we'll be enjoying some clean, nutritious chow. Unfortunately, this makes it rather difficult to imagine how the majority of the people in the world feels. Undernourishment and starvation are the rule rather than the exception for most of the world's population.

On Nov. 3, thousands of students across the United States are going to try to reverse the situation slightly. They will be fasting on that day in order that a few of those starving may have a little more to eat.

The fast is sponsored, country-wide, by an organization known as "Project Relief," and is officially known as "The Fast To Save A People." It is hoped that thousands of concerned Americans will cool it on the eating that day, and send the money they normally spend on food to Project Relief where it will be used to finance a massive relief program in India and Pakistan.

Because the situation in India and Pakistan has been replaced by the weather and ball scores on the front page, it is easy to forget that it still exists. The shooting and shouting may be over, but nine million people are left without food, homes, or belongings. Even for normally impoverished India, this is a disaster in the truest meaning of the word.

Because they aren't starving in our back yard, it is easy to forget the catastrophic storm that swept Pakistan a year ago, killing 500,000 outright, and leaving millions without livestock, homes, or belongings. Six months later war claimed the lives of another 250,000 people, and left East Pakistan in ruins. Millions fled to India, bringing with them only disease, despair, and terror. Plague and starvation killed thousands with a speed that was almost merciful. The survivors are watching their children doomed to a life of blindness and starvation by protein deficiency. The Indian government tries to supply the refugees with grains, beans, and vegetables, but without adequate protein, and vitamins, millions are suffering from acute deficiency diseases. In addition, they are without sanitation, shelter, and in many cases even clothing.

With the funds obtained through its "Fast To Save A People," Project Relief hopes to provide not only high-protein foods and vitamins for the refugees, but also shelter, portable sanitation, and medicine.

Those who join the Fast to Save A People will not have to go hungry for so long that hunger pangs are replaced by complete lack of energy and dull apathy, but they will become quite hungry. Actually, a day-long fast is not too unpleasant if one is sure to drink an adequate supply of fluid—at least ten glasses—during the day. It's a good idea to take a vitamin tablet, and not undertake too strenuously the activities planned at many schools for the day. Fasting for a day not only won't hurt a healthy individual, but those who are overweight will get a groovy surprise when they step on the scale the next day. (Most of the weight loss will be fluid, but it's still great, here in overfed America to lose five pounds, and do a good turn at the same time.)

Further information concerning The FAST TO SAVE A People you can write directly to the project at PO Box 1026, Westminster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, or phone them at (401) 751-9300. Their pins, posters, and leaflets are also available at head shops, student stores, and other businesses sponsoring the project. If your favorite isn't onto the project yet, hand him a copy of this column. There's still time to act . . . fast.

KHS Publication Takes Trophy

KINGSTON. Reason and Rhyme has done it again and then some.

The Kingston High School literary publication, an award winner from way back, has taken Ira Sapoznik memorial sweepstakes trophy at the Empire State School Press Association convention in Syracuse. The trophy represents the best all-around publication award sponsored by the Syracuse University School of Public Communications. It is reportedly the first time the trophy has been won by a magazine publication.

On its way to the top, Reason and Rhyme also won all New York Rating, highest possible in the magazine category; first in Best Magazine award sponsored by Time Inc.; and second in Best Use of Artwork and Photography in a magazine sponsored by Reuben H. Donnelly Corporation.

Other KHS publications also won honors at the convention held at Syracuse University last weekend.

The Maroon, KHS yearbook, earned first class rating in the yearbook division and second place on best Theme and Organization for a yearbook sponsored by Inter-Collegiate Press.

Dame Rumor took third place in the Best Use of Advertising category sponsored by Conklin, Labs and Bee Inc.

Individual honors went to Dame Rumor staffer Dan Guzewish who earned honorable mention in the New York Times sponsored ESSA Journalist of the Year section; Guzewish, winner of a scholarship to Syracuse University School of Journalism at last year's Empire State School Press Association convention is now a freshman at the upstate campus.

This year's scholarship winner is William Mabie who scored highest on the current events competition. Mabie is a member of the Maroon yearbook staff. The scholarships are awarded to the Syracuse School of Journalism with grants based on need.

Events Slated for Week

A number of activities are upcoming this week with emphasis on education and fund raising.

To celebrate American Education Week, Junior High Schools of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated will hold back to school night Tuesday.

The event gives parents an opportunity to become familiar with their child's schedule, to meet their child's teachers and to gain insight in their child's program of study.

In all three junior high schools, parents will meet first in the auditorium of the respective schools. The program will begin at 7 p.m. at the Myron J. Michael and M. Clifford Miller Junior High Schools and at 7:30 p.m. at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School.

The slogan for American Education Week is Help Schools Bridge the Gap.

Another way of bridging the gap is the American Field Service program of student exchange. Applications are now being accepted for the 1972 AFS

Young Artists To Illustrate Road Safety

Young artists in the New York metropolitan area are being asked to draw attention to the need for sound highway safety practices by entering the American Automobile Association's 28th National Safety Poster Contest.

The student artists will be competing for $9,000 in prizes that will be awarded for artistic merit and originality on twenty safety themes assigned to different regions and grade levels. Two grand awards of $500 Savings Bonds, intended as one-year art school scholarships, will be presented for the best poster in the Primary-Elementary and Junior-Senior groups. One hundred and thirty other awards for prize winning entries will range from $100 to $25 in the four divisions of the contest—primary elementary, junior and senior high schools.

This year, students in grades 1-9 in New York State have been assigned the themes, Help Your Safety Patrol and Be Extra Alert in Bad Weather.

MRS. JOSEPH C. MIKESH III (Lakeside Studio)

MRS. ROBERT E. LANPHEAR (Roland Studio)

Miss Irene McEntee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. McEntee, Route 9-W, Lake Katrine, became the bride of Joseph C. Mikesch III, on Saturday, Oct. 16 in St. Peter's Church, Kingston, at 3 p.m.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Brennen officiated at the double ring ceremony. Nan Goldrick, organist, accompanied Richard Scherer who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white gladioli and autumn colored pompons decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of silk satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and long full sleeves, cuffed at the wrists. The bodice, sleeves and skirt were enhanced with wide Venice lace with pale pink satin ribbon. She wore a chapel length silk illusion mantilla, edged with narrow Venice lace and carried a colonial bouquet of white pompons, scattered with small pink roses and tied with a pink velvet ribbon.

Miss Kathleen VanEtten, Old Stage Road, Saugerties; and Miss Patricia VanEtten, both cousins of the bridegroom, served as maid of honor and flower girl, respectively. They were attired in gowns styled with fitted bodices of deep brown velvet, trimmed with floral embroidered silk braids in autumn shades. The culotte type skirts of ivory crepe were floor length. They also wore bows and streamers of matching velvet in their hair and carried colonial bouquets of autumn colored pompons and chrysanthemums, tied with velvet ribbons to match their gowns.

Attendants were the Misses Margaret McEntee, Linda McEntee, both sisters of the bride, Route 9-W, Lake Katrine; Mary Mikesch, sister of the bridegroom, 100 Wurts Street, Kingston; Maureen Fitzpatrick, Yonkers and Mrs. Mary Ann Giovannozzo, cousin of the bride, Brooklyn. They wore gowns identical in styling to the honor attendants except with bodices of olive green and grass green crepe culotte-type skirts. The attendants also wore bows and streamers of matching olive velvet in their hair and carried colonial bouquets of autumn colored pompons and chrysanthemums, tied with velvet ribbon to match their gowns.

Robert Mikesch, Clifton Avenue, Kingston, served as best man for his brother. Ushers were James Mikesch, Kenneth Mikesch, Timothy Mikesch, all brothers of the bridegroom, 100 Wurts Street, Kingston; Michael Giovannozzo, Brooklyn and Peter Ferraro, Mt. Marion, Kevin Mikesch, brother of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

A reception for 125 guests was held at Holiday Inn, Kingston. The bride wore a navy blue and white empire dress with long white empire dress and a matching coat-vest, black accessories and a white rose corsage, for her traveling ensemble to Canada and the New England States.

Miss Bonnie Candyece Brinnier, New York Mills, became the bride of Robert Eugene Lanphear, Utica, on Saturday, Oct. 9 in First Methodist Church, Bolivar. The Rev. William R. Horn officiated at the double ring ceremony. Arrangements of ivory and purple shaggy chrysanthemums decorated the altar. Mrs. Willis Irvin, Bolivar, organist, accompanied Mrs. Thomas Ferris, Bolivar, who sang traditional wedding selections. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Brinnier of 78 Olean Street, Bolivar. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Grant M. Brinnier of Saugerties and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. William Brinnier of Saugerties. Lanphear is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lanphear of Cranberry Lake.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father in a floor length gown of ivory satin and Alencon lace. The gown was styled with long tapered sleeves, a high Victorian neck, fitted empire bodice and an A-line skirt, ending in a detachable chapel train. Alencon appliques and seed pearls accented the bodice, sleeves and around the hem. A Camelot headpiece of matching lace and seed pearls held her Cathedral length French silk illusion veil and she carried a cascade of Stephanotis, orchids and ivy.

Miss Patricia Manion of Troy served as maid of honor. Attendants were the Misses Sandra Shaner, cousin of the bride, Skaneateles; Diane Lanphear, sister of the bridegroom, Cranberry Lake; Christine Flynn, Troy; Mrs. Thomas Ferris, Bolivar; Mrs. Robert Jordan, Rochester; Mrs. Ronald McBride, Olean; and Mrs. Robert Cantwell, Potsdam. They wore floor length gowns of ivory crepe with shades of purple embroidery. They also wore circular headpieces of matching fabric trimmed with purple ribbons. The attendants carried bouquets of ivory gladioli and grapes, accented with purple ribbons.

THE DELICATE ORIENTAL BEAUTY of 18-year-old Patricia Moy, winner of the Miss Chinatown title, (center, surrounded by runners-up) inspired Jack Sable, commissioner of Human Rights for the State of New York, to call for regional beauty contests throughout the state for the selection of a Miss Empire State. Commissioner Sable, who heads the State Division of Human Rights, said he believed this would help promote the concept of the basic unity of all people, as the beauty and talents of all groups are brought to full public awareness. He served on the panel of judges that selected Miss Moy at the New York City Pace College contest.

Garden Club Makes Donation to Library

Mrs. Lee Denman and Mrs. Frances Olson, president and vice president, respectively, of Tongore Garden Club are shown presenting the Club's check for $400 to Mrs. Earl Proper, treasurer of the Olive Free Library. The Club designated that $300 be used for furniture and $100 be used for books. Two hundred and eighty dollars of the garden club donation was raised at a recent flea market and bake sale held in the library basement. Co-chairmen of the event were Mrs. George Scherrer and Mrs. John Waters. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Endangered List

The World Wildlife Fund offers furriers the opportunity to sign a pledge that they will "no longer buy or sell the skins or finished products of wild animals on the endangered list as set forth by fund. Animals on the fund's fashion-endangered list are: jaguar, leopard, cheetah, ocelot, tiger, polar bear, alligator, sea turtle, vicuña and crocodile.

Attending the planning meeting were the Mes: David Barkin, Morris Bernan, Louis Ellenbogen, Joseph Epstein, Stanley King, George Margolis, Herman Schneider, Louis Shapiro, Herman Slomovits, Ira Trast, Ben Werbalowsky, Betty Wolpe.

Goodwill Industries

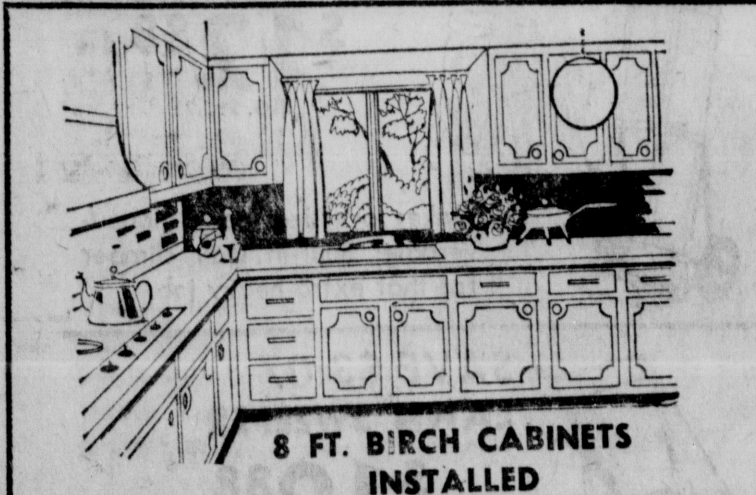

One fashion in 'ecology': Giving furniture, clothing and appliance to Goodwill Industries instead of assigning them to the trash heap. The old things add to pollution when you throw them out. By donating them to Goodwill you not only provide work for the handicapped, who recondition them like new at Woodwill workshops, but you can claim their estimated value as an income tax deduction.

Dear Abby

This Prayer Rings a Bell

DEAR ABBY: Enclosed is a "prayer" I found taped inside the kitchen cupboard door in a house we recently moved into. I thought maybe you would like to share it with your readers. Sincerely yours, THE SEVENS.

GREENVILLE, ME.
DEAR SEVENS: Thank you, but I've already "shared" it with my readers. (I wrote it.) However, I think it's worth repeating. And here it is.

A PARENT'S PRAYER
Oh, heavenly Father, make me a better parent. Teach me to understand my children, to listen patiently to what they have to say, and to answer all their questions kindly. Keep me from interrupting them or contradicting them. Make me as courteous to them as I would have them be to me. Forbid that I should ever laugh at their mistakes, or resort to shame or ridicule when they displease me. May I never punish them for my own selfish satisfaction or to show my power.

Let me not tempt my child to lie or steal. And guide me hour by hour that I may demonstrate by all I say and do that honesty produces happiness.

Reduce, I pray the meanness in me. And when I am out of sorts, help me, Oh Lord, to hold my tongue.

May I ever be mindful that my children are children and I should not expect of them the judgment of adults.

Let me not rob them of the opportunity to wait on themselves and to make decisions.

Bless me with the bigness to grant them all their reasonable requests, and the courage to deny them privileges I know will do them harm.

Make me fair and just and kind. And fit me, Oh Lord, to be loved and respected and imitated by my children.

AMEN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think about a young boy sleeping with his grandmother? We don't want to hurt Grandma's feelings, but my husband said he heard it's "unhealthy" for a child to sleep with a real old person. Personally, I think that's a lot of bunk. What is your opinion?

GRANDMA TROUBLE
DEAR TROUBLE: At what age do you consider a boy "young"? And how old is "real" old.

DEAR ABBY: My husband grew up fatherless during the depression. Now, at age 30, his net worth is around the half-million dollar mark. He is a professor with tenure, and has an excellent retirement and insurance program. Yet he buys second-hand clothes, day-old bread and refuses to spend any money on a decent car, vacations or travel.

The reason? He wants to be sure he has enough money for his old age. What could be the matter with him?

HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Lots of things. It's not uncommon for a man who has known hunger in his youth to be overly conservative, but your husband has gone off the deep end. Since he probably won't spend the money for one, give him a gift certificate which will entitle him to a free physical checkup.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Rochester Trades Ferraro to Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE BUCKS (10) Bob Dandridge found himself with no place to go, as he is guarded closely by Buffalo Braves Mike Davis in the Bucks-Braves NBA game Friday night at Milwaukee. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Mike Ferraro is going back to the major league with the Milwaukee Brewers of the American League in 1972.

Aren't they the old Seattle Pilots expansion team of 1969, the team Mike quit rather than accept a demotion to the Pacific Coast League. They are.

A telephone call from Rochester Friday night ended four years of agony and waiting for the four-time International League All Star third baseman.

The man at the other end of the line was Carl Steinfield, general manager of the Red Wings, who are, of course, owned by the Baltimore Orioles.

"Mike, I'm calling to notify you that you have been traded to the Milwaukee Brewers and put on their 40-man roster. You're going to get another shot at major league ball and you'll be hearing from the Orioles."

Stunned silence followed. Then, Ferraro recovered his voice. "Thanks, Carl," he said, "that's the greatest news I've heard in a long time."

The deal sending Ferraro to Milwaukee, which is the old Seattle franchise which Ferraro quit in disgust and a Texas League rookie pitcher, Mike Herson, were traded to the Brewers for Tom Matchick, last year's part time third sacker and Dean Look, an American Association pitcher to the Brewers system.

When the shock had worn off, Ferraro put his thoughts together for this reporter.

"I'll have to admit I was quite surprised to get that call," said the Golden Glover. "I had nothing more on my mind than planning to go back to Rochester next year. I didn't expect anything like that to happen."

The deal sending Ferraro to Milwaukee, which is the old Seattle franchise which Ferraro quit in disgust and a Texas League rookie pitcher, Mike Herson, were traded to the Brewers for Tom Matchick, last year's part time third sacker and Dean Look, an American Association pitcher to the Brewers system.

When the shock had worn off, Ferraro put his thoughts together for this reporter.

"I'll have to admit I was quite surprised to get that call," said the Golden Glover. "I had nothing more on my mind than planning to go back to Rochester next year. I didn't expect anything like that to happen."

MIKE FERRARO

"I suppose things like that happen when you least expect them," he added. "Now, for the first time in four years I really have to set myself up for this big chance."

"Right now I'm waiting to hear from Baltimore to make sure I'm on the Milwaukee 40-man reserve roster," he added. "After that, I'll take my chances against anybody they have." That would mean Andy Kosco and George Scott, late of the Boston Red Sox.

Ferraro will find only one member of the original Seattle Pilots cast when he goes to Milwaukee. He is Skip Lockwood, a relief pitcher. Dave Bristol is the Brewer pilot.

Mike's return to the majors ends four years of frustration for the brilliant third baseman. Frank Lane, who was the scout at Seattle when Mike was with the team, just happens to be the Milwaukee general manager.

Said Lane about Ferraro a couple seasons ago: "Mike's credentials are good. He is a major league fielder and a potentially good hitter."

Billy Gardner, the Louisville Colonels' manager, who has seen a lot of Ferraro, said in 1970: "If a scout sees a guy like Mike Ferraro in high school or college he'd give $100,000 to sign. He's definitely a major leaguer. I don't understand why he isn't up there."

A former Kingston High School athletic star, Ferraro was signed by the New York Yankees in 1963 and launched his organized baseball career with Fort Lauderdale of the Florida League.

After a brief whirl at third base for the Yankees in September, 1967, Ferraro joined an elite group of Dawson Award winners as the top Yankee rookie in spring training in 1968. Previous winners included Norm Siebern, Tony Kubek, Johnny Blanchard, Tom Tresh, Roy White and Pete Mikkelsen.

Ferraro batted .351 to win the Dawson Award. In 1970, he had his top average with Rochester with .304.

During the 1969 spring training season, he hit around .370 for the Seattle Pilots, but Manager Joe Schultz started Rich Rollins, former Minnesota Twin, at the hot corner.

Ferraro batted four times without a hit as a pinch hitter. When the Pilots sent him to Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League, Mike quit. He was later acquired by the Baltimore organization.

"It's been a long wait," said Ferraro, early today. "But I know I'll make it this time."

NFL Looks Past Weekend to Monday

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National Football League gets under way a few hours early this weekend but a lot of fans will still be holding their breath until Monday night.

In the NFL's only regular season Saturday night clash, the Buffalo Bills invade San Diego tonight, looking for their first victory of the year.

But the big bashes in this sixth weekend of action send Washington's undefeated Redskins against the Kansas City Chiefs in Sunday's top attraction, and, on national television Monday night (ABC, 9 p.m. EDT), Minnesota's Vikings host the Baltimore Colts in what looms as a murderous defensive grind.

Elsewhere Sunday it's Detroit at Chicago, Cincinnati at Oakland, Miami at the New York Jets, the New York Giants at Philadelphia, Green Bay at Los Angeles, Denver at Cleveland, San Francisco at St. Louis, New Orleans at Atlanta, New England at Dallas, and Houston at Pittsburgh.

Billy Kramer has made a lot of people all but forget about Sonny Jurgensen. Now the Redskins' quarterback, along with Charley Harraway, Larry Brown, Roy Jefferson and a solid defensive unit, goes for victory No. 6.

But they'll be up against another tight defensive squad in the Chiefs who, with Len Dawson at the helm, are once again dueling with Oakland in their annual scrap for leadership in the AFC West.

The Colts and Vikings are 1-2 in begrudging opponents the "west points in the league. Both are like cement walls when it comes to yielding yards on the ground. The Colts hold a slim half-game lead over Miami in the AFC East while Minnesota is tied with Detroit for first in the NFC's Central Division.

The Chargers haven't won since their opening game upset against Kansas City. The Bills haven't won at all. But their quarterback, Dennis Shaw, will have some extra incentive as he returns for the first time to the scene of his collegiate brilliance with San Diego State.

The Lions will be without cornerback Lem Barney, sidelined by a groin injury. But the Bears will be without a lot more. Injuries force them to go with third-string quarterback Bobby Douglass and reserve running back Don Shy in place of Gale Sayers.

Quarterback Virgil Carter is still out for the Bengals but Daryle Lamonia who came back from an injury to direct the Raiders to a second-half comeback victory against Philadelphia, will start this time. El-dridge Dickey, however, may replace Rod Sherman at wide receiver for Oakland.

Bob Griese will be aiming his passes for Paul Warfield and Howard Twilley and Jim Kwik and Larry Csonka will be grinding out the yardage as the Dolphins seek to avenge their loss to the Jets, the only one they've suffered this year. Bob Davis goes again for New York at quarterback after his successful debut a week ago against Buffalo.

Rick Arrington is questionable, so Pete Liske may have to start at quarterback for the winless Eagles, who, for the first time in six games, are facing a team other than a 1970 divisional winner in the Giants.

Bullets Walk, Knicks Roll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shortly before the Baltimore Bullets hosted the New York Knicks in a National Basketball Association contest Friday night veteran guards Earl "The Pearl" Monroe and Archie Clark walked off the team. Then the Knicks walked all over the Bullets.

Monroe had expressed unhappiness at playing in Baltimore and team officials have been trying to trade the player, who is in the final year of a three-year pact.

Clark had been acquired from Philadelphia earlier this week and, together with Monroe, had participated in Thursday's workout. Coach Gene Shue reported neither player had offered any indication during practice that they would abandon the team. Both were suspended by the Bullets without pay.

The Bullets tossed together a makeshift starting lineup and were thrashed 110-87 by the Knicks, playing without stand-out Walt Frazier who was sidelined with a stomach disorder. Frazier's replacement, rookie Dean Meminger, easily filled the gap caused by the ailing guard's absence and bucketed 25 points to lead all scorers.

In other NBA action, the Boston Celtics downed the Atlanta Hawks 115-108, the Milwaukee Bucks pasted the Buffalo Braves 124-105, the Chicago Bulls dumped the Los Angeles Lakers 113-106, the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Houston Rockets, 110-91 and Detroit topped Phoenix, 116-109.

In the American Basketball Association, Pittsburgh edged the Floridians 124-123 in overtime. New York upended Utah 111-100, Dallas whipped Virginia 123-108, Carolina nipped Memphis 108-102 and Indiana defeated Kentucky 105-102.

Jo Jo White canned 34 points as the Celtics erased an Atlanta lead with a fourth-quarter scoring burst and went on to seal the triumph.

Kareem Jabbar scored 38 points and snared 10 rebounds in pacing the Bucks to a triumph over the Braves. Milwaukee galloped to a 90-60 advantage late in the third period but a fourth-quarter rally sparked by reserve Fred Hilton narrowed the Bucks' lead.

The SuperSonics limited shooting ace Elvin Hayes to just nine points in posting their first home NBA triumph of the season.

Love and Weiss combined for 53 points as the Bulls ruined the home coaching debut of Coach Bill Sharman and snapped the Lakers' four-game winning streak.

The Pistons exploded for 37 points in the third quarter and then hung on for the victory.

Bruins Top Seals, 5-1

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Golden Seals have ended a seven-game National Hockey League home stand still looking for their first victory and hoping to find it on three-game road trip opening Sunday night in Detroit.

The Seals used a couple of new players Friday night but couldn't keep up with the Boston Bruins who got two goals from veteran left wing Johnny Bucyk in a 5-1 triumph before the biggest crowd of the home stand, 10,348.

Tom Webster, right wing acquired earlier Friday from the Detroit Red Wings, and defenseman Paul Shmyr were new to the California lineup. Shmyr, who came from the Chicago Black Hawks, "is going to help us," Seals coach Vic Stasiuk said, after the game. "He's tough."

Webster, who had 30 goals and 37 assists in his rookie season with Detroit, didn't get far against the Bruins. To get him the Seals gave defenseman Ron Stackhouse, 22, who had a goal and two assists Friday night in a 5-2 Detroit victory over Toronto.

Wayne Cashman scored Boston's first goal with only 17 seconds played, and Norm Ferguson tied it by scoring for the Seals at 4:57.

Bucyk's first goal put Boston ahead to stay and Phil Esposito, who had three assists, made it 3-1 with a minute left in the first period. Bobby Orr had his third assist on Bucyk's second goal, the only scoring in the second period.

Montreal blanked Vancouver 6-0 in Friday's other NHL game. Frank Mahovlich slammed home three goals to lead Montreal over the Canucks.

Avery's Blast

PARIS (UPI) — The latest by Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, to ban certain skiers from Japan's winter olympics has caught European skiing federations by surprise, a UPI survey shows.

The 83-year-old Brundage has written to the International Ski Federation (FIS) stressing that the law governing Olympic amateur status (rule 26) must be stringently followed or skiers would be banned.

He singled out no one in particular, but IOC sources said he had several top French, Austrian and U.S. skiers in mind.

FIS Secretary General Sigge Bergman called Brundage's move "indecent and insolent." Bergman, who is also president of the Swedish Ski Federation, added: "I. Brundage manages to get paragraph 26 adopted for retroactive use, then no top stars will be able to start in the Olympic games." The various federations appear to have been split badly by Brundage's move, despite their pledges at last summer's FIS conference in Yugoslavia that if one skier were banned all national squads would withdraw completely.

French ski manager Jean Beranger followed the official FIS line — "either they take everybody or nobody at all."

But a spokesman for the Austrian Federation said he had no such intention, adding "Austria will be represented by all its top athletes."

The Italians appeared to be adopting a wait-and-see attitude. "The situation is confused," a spokesman said. "But as far as we can tell, it does not concern us."

New Paltz Booters Blank St. Patrick's

NEW PALTZ — Judd Grosshans turned in New Paltz High School's seventh shutout of the season as the soccer Huguenots blanked St. Patrick's of Catskill, 3-0 here Friday.

His teammates, led by Tom Donald and Rick Pesavento, kept the ball in St. Patrick's territory most of the afternoon, outshooting the up-river squad 35-10.

Donald scored twice, at 11:55 of the third period and at 7:55 of the fourth, and Pesavento tallied at 1:08 of the third quarter to provide the winners with the margin of victory.

Dave Thornton and Bob Martinovich each picked up an assist on Donald's goals. Pesavento's point came on a penalty shot.

The Huguenots, 3-3 in the DUSO League, now own an 8-4 overall record. Their next game is Wednesday at home against Fallsburg.

Coleman Quadrangular Tuesday

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON
They're holding the Coleman Quadrangular Tuesday.

A statement like that about a year ago would have been met with cries of "What the heck is a Coleman Quadrangular?"

But area sports fans learned soon enough that the event was a cross country meet involving four high schools, including the two city rivals Kingston and Coleman.

When the Quadrangular made its debut last October it attracted a crowd estimated at 400 people, many of whom were watching a long distance race for the first time.

And they weren't disappointed as Kingston and Coleman finished one-two, a little sophomore by the name of John Cabell won individual honors, and the underdog Statesmen still managed to beat the other two teams involved.

So Tuesday there'll be another Quadrangular with the big draws being KHS and Coleman and with Ellenville and Pine Plains filling out the field.

This year's get-together should be a bit more interesting than the inaugural since both Kingston schools are in the midst of successful seasons and one of the odd teams, Pine Plains, is expected to present a challenge good enough to steal the locals' thunder.

But just like beating Navy gives Army a winning season, the focal point will be the KHS-Coleman clash and the competitors are ready.

"As everyone knows," Statesmen Coach Ken Ward says, "Coleman has never defeated Kingston in any sport since the opening of the school. To say that we are anxious to break this tradition would be an understatement."

"The rivalry is a natural," chimed in Kingston Coach Ron Gabriele. "The Quadrangular should be quite a show again anytime it's Kingston versus Coleman it becomes something more than just another athletic contest."

The experts are figuring Cabell to be a cinch for first place again. Now a junior, John has continued to improve physically in this his second season of competition and has yet to be beaten.

"Most opposition coaches are amazed at the length of Cabell's leads," Gabriele says. "It is not unusual for John to finish a meet and no other runner even be in eyesight."

Coleman's hope to win, figuring that Cabell will indeed be first, is to have its evenly matched pack finish in the two-three-four-five spots.

The Statesmen, currently third in the Ulster County Athletic League, have some good ones in Paul Schiller, Don Tegeler, Don Kelley, Kevin Post, Tony Manene, and Dave McCluskey.

Schiller and Tegeler both recently broke the Coleman team record for the Hurley Avenue course on which the Quadrangular will be run.

"Paul has been doing an outstanding job for us all season," commented Ward. "More often than not he feels most of the pressure knowing that everyone is counting on him to put up a good fight against the outstanding runners that the UCAL is loaded with. And from the first race he has taken this responsibility and proven what a fine runner he is."

Kingston isn't just a one-horse show either. Gabriele has been with utmost in confidence in calling on Bill Krempel, Keith White, Steve Schallenkamp, Dan Kelley, Bruce Chambers, Jim Kwasnowski, Mark Davis, Jeff Robinson, and Ken Sutherland.

The Statesmen are almost as eager to beat Pine Plains as they are to beat the Maroons. The Dutchess County team beat Coleman 29-30 two years ago and 28-29 last year.

Former Kingston High School Coach G. Warren Kias will be on hand to trigger the starting gun for the event which will begin at 4 p.m.

Schussler, Tegeler Excel

KINGSTON
Cross-country competition in the UCAL ended its regular season Friday with three new records in the books.

Don Tegeler, of John A. Coleman High School, and Tim Schussler of Ontario set new standards in leading their teams to victory over Walkkill and New Paltz, while Pine Bush's George Shurter tore up the Marlboro course in a losing effort.

Coleman's Tegeler-led contingent ended its maiden season in the UCAL with a 15-50 thumping of Walkkill. Tegeler's 12:31 was five seconds better than Ed Schoonmaker's 1969 record, and nine seconds better than Paul Schiller who finished second.

The Statesmen grabbed the first seven places in the win that hosted their league standing to 8-2. Coleman is 9-3 overall.

Coach Ken Ward of the Statesmen commented: "Today has to be the happiest day of my coaching career. Tegeler ran with as much guts as I've ever seen, and it paid off. In addition, the fact that today I had three runners under 13:00 is a great thrill."

Tim Schussler's 13:22 was ten seconds better than the record at the Huguenot course where Ontario triumphed 20-33.

Judd Grosshans, 13:26, was second, and Joe McDermott at 13:48 was third for New Paltz, but Ontario's George Garcia grabbed fourth to assure the Indians' win Ontario finished with a 4-6 league record.

Another Record for Cabell

KINGSTON
John Cabell set his second course record of the year, notched his eighth straight personal victory and led the KHS harriers to a whopping 19-43 victory over DCSL rival Lourdes at the Marlboro track Friday.

Cabell's time of 10:51.5 broke by .5 seconds a mark set by Rusty Peterson sometime in the 1950's, and only once equaled by Chip Ennis, in 1963.

Earlier this season, Cabell set a new standard for the Newburgh course. The speedy Maroon co-captain, undefeated in eight races this year, is only a junior.

Kingston, running its record to 6-2, achieved what Coach Ron Gabriele called "a meaningful victory" after an upset earlier in the week to Arlington. Only Steve Meier of Lourdes placing second in 11:24, averted a shut-out.

Kingston also got strong performances from Keith White, Bill Krempel, Bruce Chambers and Dan Kelley who locked up the next four places for the Maroon with times of 11:33, 11:37, 11:57 and 12:12. Jeff Robinson, sixth, also clocked 12:12.

Now 4-2 in the DCSL, Kingston still has a shot at the title of the powerhouse Indians.

Tuesday, Kingston is scheduled to participate in a quadrangular meet hosted by John Cabell at that track at the hands of A. Coleman.

Maroon with times of 11:33, 11:37, 11:57 and 12:12. Jeff Robinson, sixth, also clocked 12:12.

Ford Recalls Cortinas, Capris

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. has started a worldwide recall of 340,761 English-made Cortinas and Capris for correction of a potential steering failure.

The affected cars were produced between Dec. 1, 1969, and July 31, 1970, with 12,810 sold in the United States and most of the remainder in Europe.

At least 21 incidents in which components of the steering assembly failed were reported in Europe, resulting in one accident in which there were no injuries. American Ford representatives said there had been two reported failures, but no accidents.

Your Horoscope

Sunday, October 24

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now are eager to place your affairs on a solid and secure basis. The past several days have found you making philosophy for living. Now you can show by your actions in down-to-earth ways you meant what you said.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Analyze what your position is in the career world and make plans to improve it by adding new outlets of worth. You have abilities you seldom use. Involve yourself in some civic work, too.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Gather the information you need so that you can live in a more organized fashion in the future. Corresponding with out-of-town friends brings you their backing. You have excellent plans to put in motion.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Follow your hunches since they are more than accurate now and can open new doors of opportunity for you, help you solve problems. Being more devoted to mate brings the desired results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to sit down with partners and iron out any problems quietly and intelligently. Then out to amusement with one who is emotional. You can have a very delightful evening together.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Doing something worthwhile for one who has done you many favors in the past is wise and right now. Get duties planned for the coming week and all goes well at that time. You will have little difficulty carrying through with them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day to be with people you like at the recreations that please all of you. Get to work on creative ideas that will bring the desired results. Write important letters tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you are more cooperative at home and use your charm there more, you find all improves in that important realm of your existence. Do some entertaining at home. You seldom repay social obligations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good day for renewing your thoughts and communicating with others in a pleasant way. Write those letters to out-of-town friends. Evening can be an especially happy one for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You first have to visualize greater prosperity, so you can have it through proper planning. Listen to what a successful person has to say. Copy their methods to a certain extent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Wise friends now approve of some very practical ideas you come up with and give you the support you want for them. Good about in social circles and meet new and interesting personalities. Enjoy conversations with others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to wake up and start planning how to better your own position instead of helping others so much at this time. Make those new arrangements that can be fruitful. Avoid one who bickers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good friend has a plan that will help you so be sure to go along with it instead of resenting this person who has your interests at heart. Get into that social gathering that is also good for you, gets you out of your rut.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who is full of vim and vigor and enjoys working with the hands, loves to repair things, to help others solve own problems, and is practical to the nth degree. A very good chart for the real estate man or woman, the government worker, or any profession that requires dealing with the public. Give only the kind of education that is desired. Teach ethics early.

Monday, October 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning finds some unexpected circumstance changing your plans. It is necessary for you to make new arrangements, but this is actually an opportunity to improve your course of action so it will be much more effective. Don't be upset, but carry through under the new arrangement. Keep your cool.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A higher-up has a much better idea than yours so cooperate with him. After a rather unusual day, the evening is fine for whatever is of a romantic nature. Don't get to bed late tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you cooperate more with fellow workers and do not argue, this can be a most productive day. If your vitality gets low, take a short rest, then you can have a successful evening socially. Take care of diet.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy taking care of responsibilities and free your time for recreation in p.m. Show the one you love how devoted you are in the evening. Forget tensions of the day and be happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) One at home wants to argue with a partner, so keep out of it and all works out fine for you. Get busy handling affairs in the business world and make excellent progress. Take it easy at home tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Morning requires caution while driving. You can carry through with business matters later in a most pleasant way. Find the right accessories for your wardrobe. The evening can then be most romantic.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take a real care where monetary matters are concerned, especially since you want to overspend on fun. Put that fine talent you possess to work. You can have a nice added income from same.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There are bound to be some strange things happening today, so take them in your stride and tomorrow all goes back to normal. Enjoy delightful hobbies in p.m. Fundamental affairs should be handled well during day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You may have limitations during day but in p.m. all works to your benefit and you delight in constructive and worrying. Know what you are capable of and then act in a positive manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact that individual who knows how to help you with monetary affairs and forget others who lead you down the wrong track. Plan to improve your property wisely. Don't let any of it slip out of your fingers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go ahead and keep promises you have made to the letter instead of listening to others who are not scrupulous. Do something about improving your appearance. Make this a most social evening; dress your best.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Instead of going off to some silly tangent get busy and put your life on a more secure and practical basis. Plan to expand, but do not confide in others. Keep busy taking the initial steps in such direction.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Being loyal to good friends and not fighting with business people is your best method of operation today and tonight. Not a good evening for romance; tomorrow is best. Get your work done in an efficient manner.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have many changes occur in his or her life early, but this is only to prepare your problem-solving child to meet adult life with wisdom, perseverance and an appreciation of the need for security in the future. Give as fine an education as you can. Your youngster will then do well in work connected with travel, or in some interesting trouble-shooting profession.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Film Stars Not the Answer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — On the basis of the latest national television ratings, it can be said almost without qualification that the pursuit of movie star names by networks for weekly series has turned out to be a costly blunder.

For a long time, many shrewd observers of television have said that such motion picture headlines are very far from any kind of guarantee for ratings success in video. In fact, it is a pretty valid assertion that television fans generally seem most loyal to those stars that have been developed into big names by the video itself.

At any rate, the latest ratings, for the week ending Oct. 10, offer some rather astounding statistics that might well encourage networks to be much less free with passing out big money to movie names from now on.

As a preface, it can be noted that among the new series offered this fall, several with performers who have had a number of major movie roles—

Knapp Testimony Continues

Graft Wins Over Idealism

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 25-year-old patrolman told a commission investigating police corruption Friday he had joined the force as an idealistic youth looking for the respect he had always given policemen, but his idealism was shattered on his first assignment.

On the first assignment, patrolman Edward Droge Jr. said he was introduced to free meals for police and shared his first $10 bribe with an experienced officer to overlook a drunk driving arrest. Droge's testimony to the Knapp Commission, appointed by Mayor John V. Lindsay to investigate corruption, coincided with testimony given earlier by a 14-year veteran of the force and a former FBI agent. Droge, a three-year member of the force now on a leave of absence to attend law school at the University of Southern California, admitted taking an average of $60 to $100 a month in payoffs. He was caught taking a payoff as a plainclothes man in Manhattan and agreed to testify for the commission. He listed sources for his bribes as gamblers, tow trucks, check cashing firms, supermarkets and city marshals engaged in evictions.

"I more or less felt I fitted in with the regular scheme of things," he said. "I was the rule not the exception. You were pretty sure of making a considerable amount of money if you went into plainclothes."

Droge told the commission corruption was widespread and while assigned to the Brooklyn Bedford-Stuyvesant section he knew of only two of 70 to 75 patrolmen in the area who were not on the take. He said bribes were not limited to money.

"It wasn't unusual to make a few calls each night and pick up a couple of pounds of frankfurters," he said. "Any officer who didn't go home with a bagful of groceries figured his night tour wasn't complete."

He also told of a shirt factory in his precinct to which all police cars responded when there was an alarm.

"You would arrive and see everybody walking out with shirts under their arms," he said. "It was a common practice. The cars would zoom down there."

Patrolman William Phillips, who admitted taking bribes during his 14 years on the force, testified three previous days and his testimony was backed up Friday by Al Cipriani, a former FBI agent now working for the commission.

Cipriani said plainclothesmen intentionally filed defective affidavits to ensure acquittal or light fines for gamblers. He said in one case the practice cost a gambler at least $2,500 in payoffs.

Everett Cooper, 78, a numbers runner in Harlem for 40 years, told the commission that he was "a small operator" but still had to pay policemen to continue his work.

He said he made so little from his operation that to pay the police the money they demanded he had to borrow from his Social Security.

Nixon Confident Of Taiwan Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — After weeks of studiously avoiding a prediction of success in the effort to keep Taiwan in the United Nations, the Nixon administration now says it is confident of victory.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and U.N. Ambassador George W. Bush met with President Nixon Friday and told him the United States now appears to have the votes to keep Taiwan from being expelled.

Until Friday, Rogers and other U.S. officials had said only that the vote on China representation would be "very, very, very close" and the United States "hoped it would be able to keep a U.N. seat" for the Taiwan government.

The crucial vote is expected Tuesday when the United States will seek to have an Albanian resolution seeking to expel the Nationalists considered as an "important question," requiring a two-thirds majority.

The American move needs only a simple majority to be successful and that is what Rogers and Bush told Nixon they were confident would be achieved.

The Albanian resolution also calls for seating the mainland Chinese in the U.N., a goal shared by the United States, which has introduced its own resolution to that effect.

If Rogers and Bush are right and the Nationalists keep their seat while the mainland government is brought in as well, it will mark a major comeback for the United States in the representation fight.

Until last week, many diplomats here and at the United Nations expressed strong doubts about the chances for Taiwan. This was reflected by U.S. difficulties in obtaining major cosponsors for its resolutions.

Some sources even said at one early moment they doubted the United States was even fighting very hard for the Taiwan government.

These doubts were replaced late last month by charges by some U.N. representatives that the United States had resorted to strong-arm tactics in order to overcome such sentiments.

As evidence, they claimed Rogers had purposefully overplayed sentiment by some members of Congress that the United States should reconsider its financial support of the U.N. if the Nationalist government were expelled.

But in the last two weeks the American delegation worked hard to convince U.N. members they did not support such sentiment. Instead of threats, the U.S. officials turned to what has become their most telling argument—Taiwan has been a faithful member of the U.N. and its expulsion would be a dangerous precedent.

According to administration sources and foreign diplomats, this has been the turn-about argument that resulted in the new American confidence.

Set $25,000 Bail In Soviet Sniping

NEW YORK (UPI)—A rabbinical student who is a member of the militant Jewish Defense League (JDL) was free on $25,000 bail today after his arraignment on a charge of buying the rifle from which four shots were fired at the Soviet Mission to the United Nations.

Isaac M. Jaroslawicz, 18, New York, was released on bail Friday after his appearance before U.S. Magistrate Vincent Catogio.

U.S. Attorney Robert S. Morse had asked for the higher bail, saying other JDL members facing prosecution had fled the country. He agreed to the lower amount, however, after Catogio ordered Jaroslawicz to surrender his passport and provide police with samples of his writing.

Police have said the shots were fired Wednesday night from a parapet of nearby Hunter College, smashed a window in the mission and the bullets entered a room occupied by six persons, including four children. No one was injured. During Jaroslawicz' arraignment, attorney Bertram Zweibon, cofounder and vice president of the JDL, said the youth

Mastery of Mozart Is Her Forte And She's Here Monday

KINGSTON

She began the study of piano when most youngsters her age were learning their ABC's. By the time other children had begun counting the multiplication tables on their fingers, she was enrolled at the Royal Academy of Music in her native Budapest, Hungary.

Since then, Hungarian pianist Lili Kraus has been applauded all over the world; has earned the adoration of audiences and critics alike. Now, she's coming to Kingston to perform with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, with Claude Monteux conducting. It is an auspicious visit from one of the globe's most radiant talents, and her concert here at Kingston High School on Monday, Oct. 25 at 8:30 p. m. should be one of the musical treats of the decade.

Acclaim for Concerti

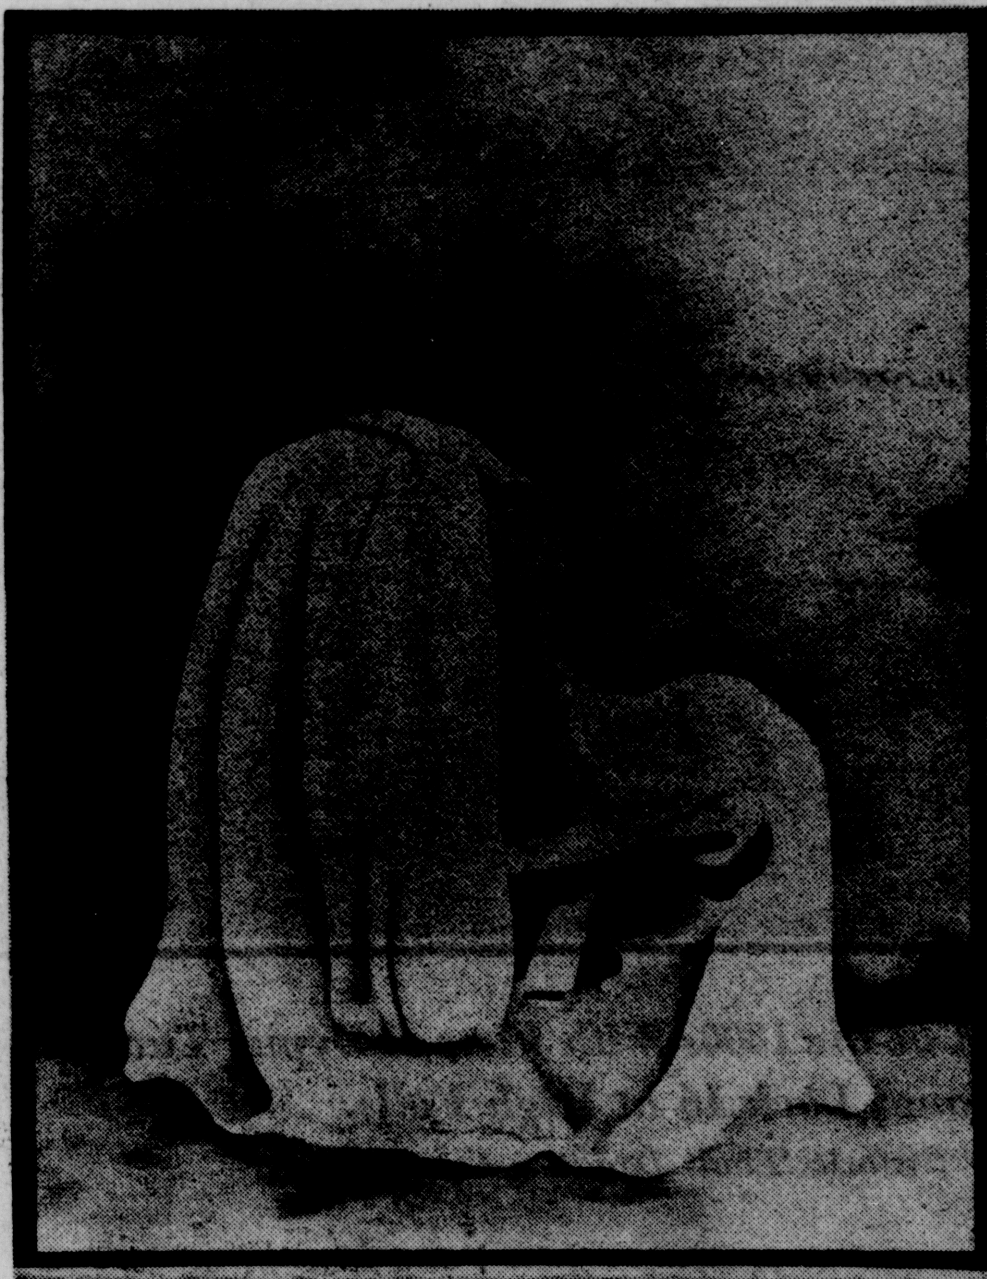

Her most stunning accomplishment was a series of nine New York programs in the 1966-67 season during which she played all 25 of the Mozart Piano Concerti. Each concert in the series brought audiences to their feet for standing ovations, and her performance was hailed as an unmatched feat.

Considered the finest distaff pianist ever to interpret Mozart's music, she is a recognized expert in the field who has repeated her playing of his Concerti on record albums and national television. And, for those attending her concert here Monday night, the highlight should be her performance of one of the concerti—MOZART: Piano Concerto in A Major—bringing to this city a repeat of one of her major accomplishments.

Mme. Kraus' career has been one of international triumphs, and her concert here should be a sell out. Reserve your ticket now by calling 338-1172 for an enjoyable evening of Mozart, Janacek and Tchaikovsky.

IN THE SHADOW of the master, world-renowned pianist LILI KRAUS, who comes to Kingston High School auditorium as guest artist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic next Monday, Oct. 25 at 8:30 p. m. is shown here against the background of the famous Beethoven statue in Vienna's historic Konzerthaus.

THIS INTRIGUING PAINTING, totally creative in concept, is one of thousands of works coming out of New York State's prisons in recent years. In the wake of Attica, the Annual Fall Art Exhibition of Green Haven Correctional Facility takes on renewed interest for the public.

A Fall Art Show Links the Prison With the Outside

STORMVILLE

A breath of long-repressed creativity is beginning to stir in New York State's prisons with the advent of art programs for prison inmates.

Paintings (more than 800) and varied craft work and leather items created under such a program will be on view and on sale when the Green Haven Correctional Facility, Stormville, holds its Annual Fall Art Exhibition. As in the past, the exhibit will be held on Facility grounds; is slated this year for the last two weekends in October.

The public is cordially invited to attend the exhibition by Green Haven's many resident artists, who'll be offering their works in the moderate price range of less than $50. Show hours will be from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Oct. 23 and 24 — and again on Oct. 30 and 31. An in-door show, it will be held rain or shine.

Needed: An Aware Public

For years, Green Haven has recognized the value of art exhibitions and sales as a means toward developing qualities of self-discipline and pride in the men who participate as artists and craft workers. As in other state prisons, enlightened wardens and state officials, dedicated volunteers and humane correction officers have been responsible from the development of art programs. It seems especially appropriate, in the wake of Attica and San Quentin, that the public be aware of this. A visit to Green Haven during show days will contribute much to its success.

Indeed, the exhibit is one small attempt to maintain a link between the community within prison walls and those of us outside. Each work of art should be viewed as an act of liberation for men whose destiny and dignity have been proscribed and legislated by the state. And each creation is a fragile link between the inner world of its creator and the outside community.

What should also be remembered as one browses through the hundreds of art works at Green Haven is that only a handful of men and women have believed enough in the potential of these prison artists to fight to make more moments of liberation possible for them. And always with the purpose in mind of humanizing what have more often than not been among society's most barbaric institutions.

If prison art proves anything, it proves that humanism can succeed where repression has failed.

Its Meaning for Them

Green Haven officials point out that, for one man, painting means a chance to portray everyday scenes he never really noticed until they were no longer accessible. For another, it represents an opportunity to earn money which will provide a special treat for his wife and children. For a third, it forms the basis for a new life when he is once again out in "the free world."

Few of the artists whose works will be on exhibit at Stormville have never before

Too Early to Think Snow?... Not For Ski Movie Buffs!

KINGSTON
The French have a saying — "Toutes Nieves, Toutes Montagnes"—which means to those who speak English only—"Any Snow, Any Mountain." And that's the title of Warren Miller's superlative movie, being offered as a special treat for area sportsmen and film buffs by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters.

A fabulous, family rated feature film, it'll play one night only (Nov. 6 at 8 p. m.) at Kingston High School Auditorium, with admission priced at $2 per ticket. A special added attraction by the Ladies Auxiliary will see the awarding of a slew of passes to area ski centers—all of which will go as prizes to lucky members of the audience.

Around the World

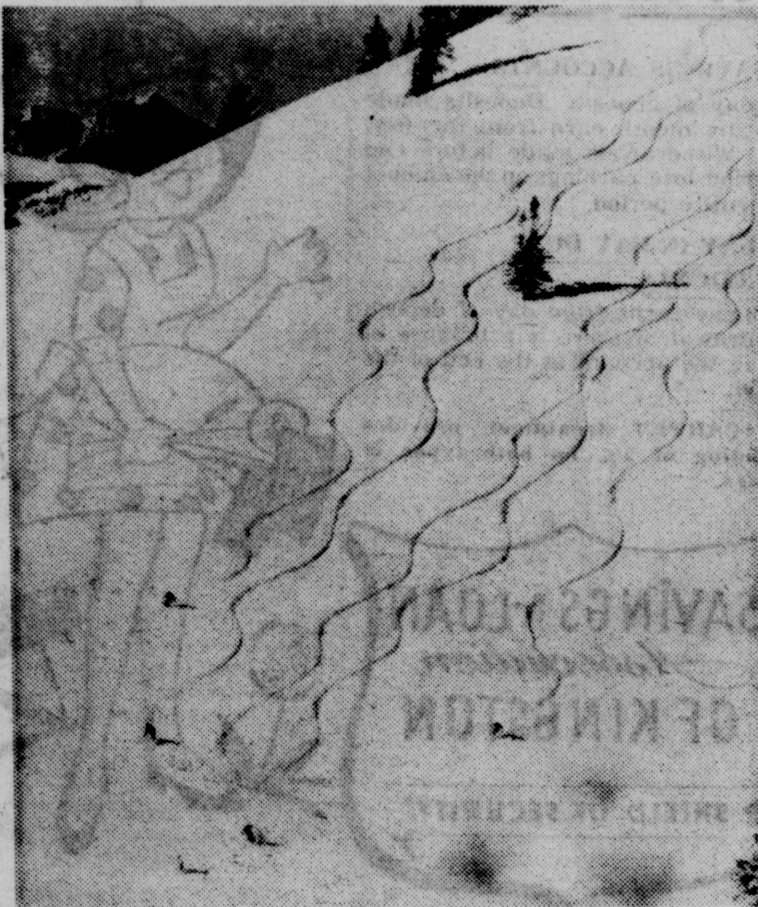

"Any Snow, Any Mountain" takes you on a fascinating visit to the mountains of Sapporo (imagine all the skiers in America skiing on the same weekend in California and you've got the picture of what happens at this Japanese site), Sun Valley, Courmayeur, Garibaldi, Vail, Zermatt, Squaw Valley, Snowbird, Mad River Glen, Jackson Hole, Bear Valley, Alta, Yosemite, Steamboat Springs and Snow Valley.

All new and filmed just last winter, this "entertainment must" of the pre-holiday season features helicopter skiing and other stunning scenes, along with a full musical score and lots of laughs via humorous narration.

Get your tickets in advance at the following Kingston locations: Central Fire Station, East O'Keilly Street; Cornell Fire Station, Abeel Street; Wilwyck Fire Station, Fair Street; Potter Brothers Ski Shop, Route 28, Frank's Sport Shop, 70 North Front Street; Spada's Sport Shop, 594 Broadway.

WISH YOU WERE THERE? You can be when Warren Miller's fabulous, family rated film focuses on powder and many other kinds of snow on a ski trip starting in Japan and ending in Switzerland.

THIS SNOW'S at Vail, Colo., but it could be Sun Valley or Jackson Hole or Snowbird or Squaw Valley or Zermatt or Sapporo. You'll see those places and many more if you get your tickets now for ANY SNOW, ANY MOUNTAIN.

WORLD'S RECORD KITE FLIGHT is a feature of the all new, full length color film, ANY SNOW, ANY MOUNTAIN. In this scene, Jeff Jobe flies over three miles nonstop from top of Sun Valley's Baldy Mountain in "the most amazing performance ever seen on a pair of skis." See it for yourself at Kingston High School Auditorium the night of Nov. 6.

THE DAZZLE OF SUN and snow — and all the fun of skiing — will be brought to the local high school auditorium the night of Nov. 6 when the Ladies Auxiliary to the Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters sponsors an excellent ski film with humorous narration and a full musical score

IN 20 YEARS and two million miles of travel, Warren Miller has, indeed, skied ANY SNOW, ANY MOUNTAIN. Here's Miller, producer and director of the movie of that title, who skied down and filmed slopes around the world with all his camera gear, to complete the film, coming to Kingston early next month.

Iambic Pentameters Made Not So Esoteric

Suddenly this fall, St. Blaise Restaurant in New Paltz has become the scene of one of this valley's newest cultural outcroppings: a biweekly series of poetry readings featuring talented local poets. And, if the response is such that the coordinators feel it can be worked out, established poets from outside the immediate vicinity will be brought in.

Poetry readings in New Paltz have become something of a recent tradition — a logical result of the fact that the town supports a sizeable group of active and concerned poets. Last year, weekly readings were held in the wine cellar of the Homestead, a local bar, and they proved to be remarkably well-attended for such an esoteric-seeming art form as poetry on a regular basis.

"The first reading we had last winter," recalls Tad Richards, New Paltz poet and coordinator of the current poetry series, "we had no idea what the response would be. All we could do was put up posters and then sit back and wait. The readings were at ten o'clock Monday night, and at ten minutes to ten the place was deserted. We were certain it was going to be the greatest fiasco in the history of New Paltz, but five minutes later people started arriving and filling up the chairs, and then the floor.

They Crammed In

"I don't know how many people you can cram in that room — maybe 22 — but they were crammed in, for sure. And I'm told that close to a hundred more had to be turned away for lack of space."

After the novelty of the first week wore off, things settled down, but there was still considerable community support. The readings featured primarily local poets, but on the last Monday night of the spring series, noted New York poet and former member of the Fugs rock group, Tuli Kupferberg, journeyed north to read.

"We had to pay Tuli to come up," says Richards, "and so we had to ask a donation, although all the other readings had been free. We weren't into making money on it, just breaking even, so we charged fifty cents a head and when we'd gotten enough at the door to pay Tuli we stopped charging and let everyone else in free."

This year, however, the Wine Celler is no more, and the Monday evening readings have moved up Main Street to St. Blaise.

"We appreciated the use of the space at the Homestead," Richards reminisces, "but it was hard for poetry downstairs to compete with dancing upstairs. St. Blaise offers us a quieter atmosphere — and a touch of elegance not unbefitting to a poetry reading."

An Ideal Setting

The restaurant does seem to offer that and more. Attractively decorated with antiques, its most eye-catching feature being a stained-glass madonna and child (lit from behind and in the center of one wall), it appears the ideal setting for a relaxed, rewarding cultural evening.

It must also be noted that a poetry reading in New Paltz is an experience far removed from the stereotype of a stuffy, often boring, mandatory cultural evening. And it is not, by any means, to be confused with the spaced-out, incomprehensible obscurities many people associate with modern poetry.

The general attitude of the audience is informal and receptive, with listeners taking an attentive but unsolemn pleasure in the proceedings. The presence of a number of local poets in the audience for each reading leads to sporadic, good-natured heckling, which helps to set an easy tone.

This fall poetry readings will be held at 10 p.m. on alternate Mondays. The most recent session in mid-October featured poets Tad Richards of New Paltz, and Nancy Willard of Poughkeepsie, whose most recent collected, 15 Masks for the Poet, was published by Kayak Press.

The next reading is slated Oct. 25; features Bloomington's George Montgomery, veteran of the beat movement and a prolific poet represented in major anthologies, along with Hillsdale's Peter Kane Dufault, well-known Hudson Valley poet. Former Liberal Party candidate for Congress, and author of A Westchester Farewell and other poetry tomes.

The series continues Nov. 8 with Alan Drake, New Paltz master of both traditional and experimental poetry, and Tilson's Dick Lourie, widely published poet-musician, whose work has appeared in magazines and anthologies, who has three books to his credit, who edits Hanging Loose magazine, and who will bring parts of his multi-media shows for the New York State Council on the Arts to St. Blaise.

Try one reading and you'll probably go again. Since the restaurant is not regularly open for business Monday nights, no food is served. But the bar is open and you can lift an imported beer or one of the regular line of drinks in a toast to the reader or readers of the night.

Experienced Pros, Promising Youths Team for Concert

It'll be a most unusual program when experienced musicians from the ranks of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic collaborate in concert with two gifted and promising young artists early next month.

Presented by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, the concert is planned for Nov. 6 at 7 p.m. at New Paltz High School; will feature soloists of long professional experience and talented musicians on the way up. Highlighting the program will be the Mozart Flute and Harp Concerto in C Major, with flutist Debby Kruzansky and harpist Nancy Allen, and the Bach Concerto for Violin and Oboe with violinist Linda Cummiskey and oboist Martin Sperber.

Sixteen-year-old Debby Kruzansky has studied with Claude Montoux for three years; will finish New Paltz High School after three years; attends Juilliard in New York City as a scholarship student every Saturday to play first flute in the pre-college division. A member of the Orchestra in Progress of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, she also won a scholarship last summer to Saratoga Performing Arts School which led to a performance with the Philadelphia Orchestra; has worked in various woodwind ensembles.

Nancy Allen, just 17, plays harp for the HVPO; is a high school senior at Carmel. Acclaim came her way last year in a performance of the Nutcracker Suite, and Claude Montoux says of her: "Not only is she extremely gifted, but she is already a professional musician." A member of the Philharmonic for the past year, she also studies with Pearl Chertok of the CBS Orchestra; was a winner in the Intermediate Section of the American Harp Society National Competition.

Making herself well-known to area audiences in recent years, Nov. 6 soloist Linda Cummiskey holds Bachelor and Master of Music degrees respectively from Northwestern University and the University of Michigan; has worked often with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic 3511.

and its Chamber players; is now an assistant professor of music at State University College, New Paltz.

Martin Sperber needs no introduction to area music fans; has been first oboist of the Philharmonic for 13 years; is a Juilliard graduate and associate professor of Music on the Paltz campus. He has played with the National Symphony of Washington, D. C. and the Pittsburgh and Buffalo Symphonies; will soon receive his doctorate in music at Columbia University.

An exciting musical event, then, for New Paltz on Nov. 6 (with a planned repeat of the program Nov. 7 at Ulster County Community College). Tickets are now available at Yarn Barn, Little Red House of Gifts, Book and Record Shop, and the Music Department office at SUNY, all in New Paltz. For further information, call 255-7215, 255-1938 or 895-

Kids of All Ages Will Get Their Chills At 'Haunted House' in the Beekman Barn

RHINEBECK You'd better look alive and be on the alert if you plan to be in and around Rhinebeck's Beekman Arms Barn. TEMPO has it on the most expert advice available that Ghosts and Creepy Creatures have been seen there of late. Speculation has it that they're gathering for the annual Halloween Haunt.

That's because — for several weeks now — workers from the ranks of local Rotarians and town residents, headed by Peter H. Troy, have been dressing up the Beekman Barn for Rhinebeck's yearly Ghost and Ghouls gathering. It's known as the Haunted House and this year's version will be bigger and better than ever. The eerie environs will feature everything in the way of big and little horrors that can be culled from the recesses of medieval castles.

Among the special guests expected at the Haunted House are the Headsman from Castle Dungeon, the Monster of the Moat, and the Castle Ghost. It is already on hand to assist with the Halloween preparations, so don't let him scare you off if you see him around town.

A Treat for Kids

So, treat the kids to Halloween fun by taking them to the Haunted House, open to daring people of all ages at the following time:

Thursday, Oct. 28, 4-9 p.m.

Friday, Oct. 29, 4-9 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 30, 2-10 p.m.

Sunday, Oct. 31, 2-10 p.m.

It's in the heart of Rhinebeck, directly behind the Beekman Arms Hotel. Entrance to the frightening residence is on West Market Street, across from the Ford Garage (next to the Fire House Gift Shop), and there's plenty of parking in the area.

Admission is only a paltry 25 cents and the Ghosts in charge are donating the proceeds to the Rhinebeck Rotary Club for community work. School and club groups should contact Peter Troy to schedule convenient times for large parties to visit the holiday attraction.

We'll see you at the Haunted

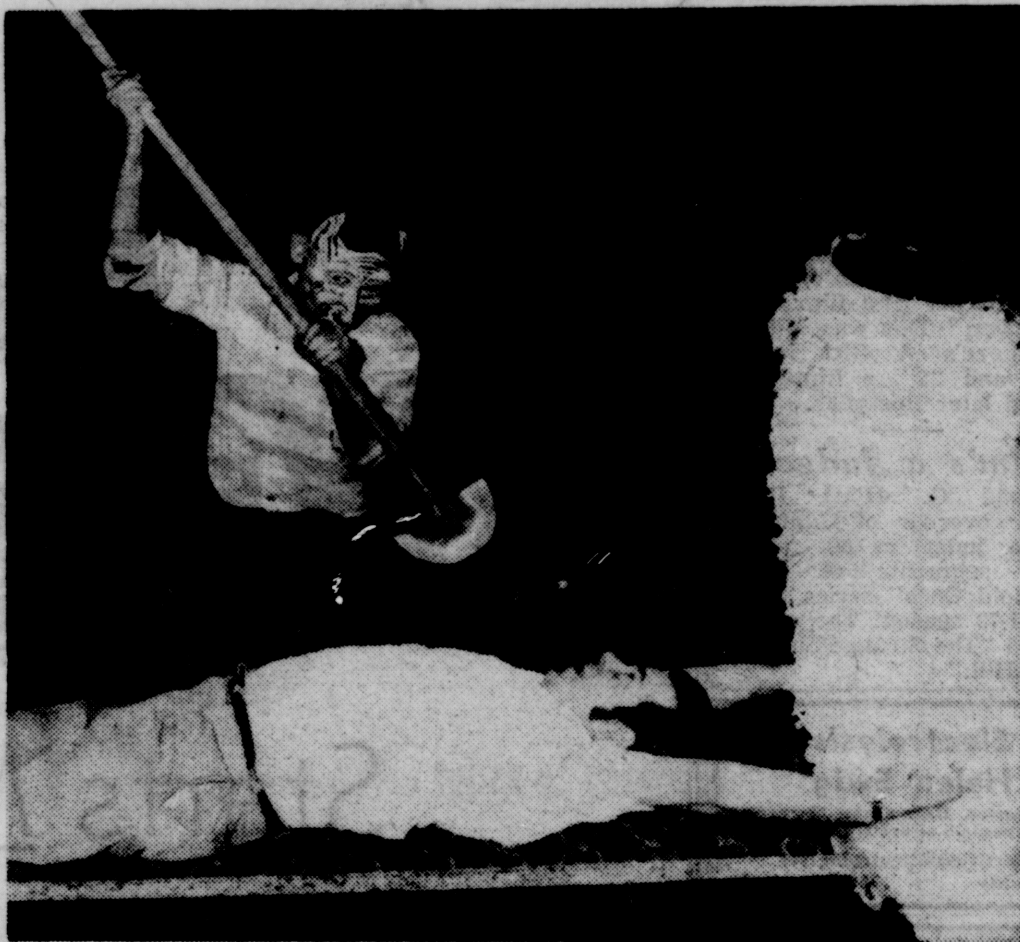

House, but warn you in advance that children under the age of seven must be accompanied by an adult. Go and enjoy and have yourself some super dynamite chills and thrills.

PENNSYLVANIA ART LOVERS will soon have an opportunity to enjoy one of the pleasures long known to area gallery-goers. Lehigh University at Bethlehem, Penn., is the scene of an exhibition featuring oil paintings by Ethel Magafan, shown here with one of her mountain landscapes. A resident of Woodstock since the 1940's, Ethel Magafan has received international acclaim for her work. The Lehigh show, also featuring the Wilson Collection of Prints and watercolors by Lee Everett, opens this Sunday with a reception and tea; will remain on view in the Alumni Memorial Building Galleries on campus daily and Sundays through Nov. 21. 'Petrified Forest' Tickets on Sale

POUGHKEEPSIE Tickets for the Marist College Theatre Guild's production of "The Petrified Forest" are now on sale at the theatre on the Poughkeepsie campus. "Forest," the pulsing drama of a wayfaring writer's love for a wistful waitress — and the prison-fleeing gangsters who change the lover's destinies — has become an American classic.

It opens a five-performance engagement at Marist on Oct. 27; will run through Oct. 31. Brimming with fast-paced action, intermingled with a tender love story and the larger issues that touch upon an imperiled civilization, the play was written by Robert Sherwood. The author of three Pulitzer Prize-winning dramas, Sherwood also scripted "The Best Years of Our Lives," and wrote the best-selling biography, "Roosevelt and Hopkins."

In the Marist production, Richard Checchia has the role of Alan Squier, created on Broadway by the late, great Leslie Howard. Squier is the nomadic writer searching for something to believe in and finding it in his love for Gabby Maple, a waitress in a lunchroom oasis in the Arizona desert. The part of Gabby will be played by Katherine McCarty, and the role will call for her to recreate a character who longs to see the world and fulfill her ambitions to study art in France.

Enter Duke Mantee

Into this tranquil scene steps the notorious Duke Mantee, leading a gang of thugs that's just one jump ahead of a posse.

The gangsters change the lives of all who are caught in the lunchroom near the petrified forest of the play's title. Frank DeKoski plays gang-leader Mantee, the role that first brought Humphrey Bogart fame on both stage and screen as a tough-talking gangster prototype.

Others in the Marist cast of "The Petrified Forest" are: Paul Tesoro, Bill Sprague, Brian Doyle, Harry Oettinger, Kevin Keenan, Ruth Marquez, Glen Casale and Stanley Bojarski. Also: Carla Bergold, Steve Sette, Lou Miressi, Les Inch, Lou Gallo, Tony Scarrone, Jack Ledwith and Tony Frontera.

For taut and tense entertainment, reserve your seats through the Marist College Theatre box office now by letter or phone.

First of Its Kind in Dutchess: Elizabethan Feaste

RHINEBECK

Rhinebeck's history-steeped Beekman Arms is known far and wide as the oldest inn in the U.S.; has been in continuous operation since 1700. Fine food, excellent service and accommodations, and an atmosphere remarkable in its detailed authenticity marks it as an outstanding inn in the Hudson Valley and one of the best along the eastern seaboard.

Many a famous guest has spent gastronomic and convivial evenings there, and rumor has it that the Headless Horseman (famous in Washington Irving's Hudson Valley classic) may have been a frequent visitor.

All of which is by way of leading up to the fact that on Tuesday evening, Nov. 2, Beekman Arms host-manager Charles La Forge is presenting an unusual event — marking a "first of its kind" in Dutchess County.

Featured will be the golden-voiced Mid-Hudson Madrigal Singers and an "Elizabethan Feaste" prepared by chef Robert Brown, acclaimed for more than a passing acquaintance with the preparation and serving of fine foods. The favorite fare of kings, queens and nobles will be served at the "Feaste," including such gourmet dishes as Smoked Salmon, Baked Clams Chelsea, Roasted Brighton Duck and Roast Suckling Pig, to mention only a few. And to help the digestion of diners, there'll be English ale and wine from the Colonies.

Also a first in many, many years will be the serving of spirits on election day, only recently legalized.

The musically superb Madrigal Singers will be in period costume and promise a rich and interesting variety of songs, including some that were popular three centuries or more ago.

The madrigal is an artistic form of poetry and music that came to flower in the 16th century in Italy, where it was a favorite diversion of cultivated amateurs. Its form spread to France and England with each country contributing a new shape, depending upon the expressive needs of the people. And, although the madrigal was an integral part of the Renaissance era, its form extended into the world of the baroque.

Now, the 20th century has brought a renewed interest in the polyphonic sound of madrigals and the charm of motets and chansons. And area music lovers have much to boast about in fact that the Mid-Hudson Madrigal Singers (directed by talented Beatrice Bright) have become remarkably adept in the difficult art of blending tones and moods that were standard in the 16th century. This group is Carnegie Hall caliber, and a definite cultural plus for our area.

Tickets for this gala pre-holiday event are $12.50 each, with reservations on a first-come, first-served basis by calling 876-7077. Checks should be at the Beekman Arms by Oct. 27 for reservations, since space is limited, unless other arrangements are made with Arms manager La Forge.

Unique? Exciting? Worth every cent it'll cost you? TEMPO thinks so; knows you'll enjoy it. The "Elizabethan Feaste" begins at 8 p.m. on election day, but better reserve early for this unusual, authentic, interesting, palate-pleasing and enjoyable-listening evening's entertainment.

Local Writer's 'Lemonade' in Instant Replay

It was a television first this past Thursday evening for James Prideaux, writer of state plays and radio scripts and a resident of a house with a view high atop Hurley Mountain.

Offered on Channel 13's "Hollywood Television Theatre" Thursday at 9 p.m. was Prideaux's "Lemonade," shown in color and co-starring two veteran actresses, Martha Scott and Eileen Herlie.

Prideaux's play (a TV adaptation from his original stage drama) was a nostalgic gem and the Misses Scott and Herlie were superlative in a story that took place on Memorial Day on a quiet country road. As two middle aged women selling lemonade and sharing secrets about the past and what might have been, the stars turned in well delineated and excellent performances.

Prideaux, whose plays have been produced on Broadway and Off-Broadway and who has written for daytime TV serials, had the distinction of being feted to the first dramatic "instant reply" in television's history. "Lemonade" is a short, one act play; was shown twice in a row during the Thursday night hour.

For those who might have missed it, it will be repeated tonight, Saturday, Oct. 23 at 10 p.m., again on Channel 13.

'Family' Exhibit

MILLBROOK

"The Family" is the theme of an exhibit of the photography of Alden Spilman being held at Bennett College, Millbrook, now through Oct. 26. The showing in the Alumnae Hall Gallery, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., is open to the public without charge.

Spilman, a painter, photographer, and salvage sculptor, attended the University of Colorado, where he studied with Roland Reiss, Howard Eigge, and Ed Woodman. He has also studied with his father, the artist and industrial designer Raymond Spilman.

Employed as a construction worker in Breckenridge, Colo., he is also rebuilding an old frame house to contain his gallery, "For the Glory of God."

Expatriate Artist In a Bard Showing

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON artists as Dubuffet, Oldenberg, Hugh Weiss, an American and the California artist, Peter Saul, as well as to pop art artist who has lived in Paris for 20 years, is having an exhibition of drawings, paintings, and gouaches at Bard College's Procter Art Center from now through Nov. 7.

Trained at Philadelphia Academy of Art, University of Pennsylvania, and Barnes Flundation, Weiss has worked independently in France for many years, in contact with such artists as Giacometti, Brancusi, Miro, Soulages, and a wife group of American artists living abroad.

He has exhibited in more than a dozen one-man shows in Paris, Holland, Brussels, and Germany, and in galleries and group shows far too numerous to mention.

Satire and Fantasy

While obviously a serious and subtle painter, Weiss' work shows a good deal of levity, satire, fantasy and a personal and provocative imagery. Aesthetically he is related in spirit and technique to such DUSTIN HOFFMAN wants to know "WHO IS HARRY KELLERMAN AND WHY IS HE SAYING THOSE TERRIBLE THINGS ABOUT ME?" The film also stars Barbara Harris, Jack Warden, David Burns and Dom De Luise and is the current attraction at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.

MOVIES

Who Is Harry Kellerman?

Here's a movie with a title so long it takes up the whole marquee at Kingston's Mayfair currently. "Who Is Harry Kellerman and Why Is He Saying Those Terrible Things About Me?" stars Dustin Hoffman as a highly successful composer of rock music whose business and personal life is being systematically destroyed by a mysterious figure named Harry Kellerman.

The movie focuses on one long night in the life of the composer, who lives on top of the General Motors building on Fifth Avenue, and who goes through his entire life in an attempt to find out the identity of Kellerman and why he's doing what he's doing.

Since Dustin Hoffman is one of the finest young actors in films today—and any performance by him is fascinating to watch—the movie is worth seeing for his emoting alone. His role does not allow him the range that was possible in such previous successes as The Graduate, Midnight Cowboy and Little Big Man, but it does mark some firsts for him. It's the first time he's played a father, and the first time he sings and plays the guitar in films.

East Side, West Side

The story was filmed almost entirely in New York; offers a sprawling canvas of the city from Broadway, Fifth Avenue and Central Park to a Brooklyn subway, the Lincoln Tunnel and Coney Island. The lavish three story penthouse (a spacious triplex with a terrace that is Hoffman's apartment—overlooking all of Manhattan) all in white, with white walls, rugs, furniture, music wing and the latest sound and recording equipment—is almost worth the price of admission in itself.

There's an able supporting cast in this strange tale, including Jack Warden, Barbara Harris, David Burns, Betty Walker, Rose Gregorio, Gabe Dell and Dom De Luise.

Two a Penny

We have to confess that we have not seen fit to drop by the Community Theatre here in Kingston where this film is currently playing for the purpose of reviewing its plot line. And we confess, too, that we will probably continue to avoid the movie, since — on the basis of a brief story synopsis furnished us — it shows every indication of not being what we personally look for in the way of screen entertainment.

"Two a Penny" stars Cliff Richards (whoever he is) in the tale of a young man facing today's worldly problems. That alone is a subject that moves us not, for his problems are based in the easy availability of drugs and establishment pressures; ours are rooted in the high price of kids' sneakers and the gasoline needed to get us from home to work and back again.

Anyway, young Cliff encounters a British girl, turns Jesus freak, and heads off with her in a search for meaningful religious beliefs. They apparently find some when they attend a rally at which evangelist Billy Graham turns them on to God.

For Graham admirers, there's a special guest appearance by John Frankenheimer, it stars the handsome and durable Omar Sharif, Leigh Taylor-Whitman. For us (and we like Young and Jack Palance.

The Anderson Tapes and The Horseman

This weekend only at the local Sunset Drive-In, the double bill teams up a slick cops-and-robbers film with an action adventure movie.

"Tapes" is a rerun that's more than slightly entertaining. Directed by the talented Sidney Lumet and based on Lawrence Sanders' best-seller, it's got a smashing surprise ending; is the story of how ex-con Sean Connery plans and almost pulls off the robbery of a plush New York City apartment house.

"The Horseman" is a first run showing of a film about fierce rivalries between the violent men who live in present-day Afghanistan. Directed by

See No Evil

An inspired performance by Mia Farrow is the major attraction in this suspense drama, now featured at the Rosendale Theatre. As a girl blinded during a horseback riding accident, she's superlative as the only survivor of a mass murder. Using all the tricks and advantages the blind have at their disposal, she tries to elude the murderer who must now attempt to add to her to his list of victims.

Other Choices

BANANAS and TASTE THE BLOOD OF DRACULA. At Red Hook's Lyceum currently, this double feature of totally diverse films. "Bananas" was written and directed by comic Woody Allen, who also stars as a sly misfit who becomes embroiled in a South American revolution

Historic 'Find' Beside a Canal

DEPUY CANAL HOUSE TAVERN'S John Novi (L) and chairman Peter Zegel of High Falls Fire Commissioners (R) discuss restoration of gear house on Lock 16 of the D&H Canal. (Photo by Cricket Hill Studios)

HIGH FALLS Return, if you will, to TEMPO's cover and allow your eye to traverse the scene in a photograph taken prior to 1898. What you'll see is a view of the Depuy Tavern and Lock 16 of the once busy Delaware and Hudson Canal before the canal closed its profitable operations.

Note, too, the gear house — and the loaded barge in the lock lashed to the snubbing posts on the right to hold it fast while the water level in the lock changed. With something of regret, be reminded that the bridge in the rear right is no more. And be advised that the canal was filled in with the Route 213 roadway replacing it between Locks 15 and 16.

Superstar as Film

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Norman Jewison will direct and co-produce the motion picture version of "Jesus Christ Superstar," the rock opera, for Universal Pictures.

The rare old photo on the cover came to us courtesy of "a friend" who cares more for history and publicity. And it ties in with what can only be called "timeliness" with the historic 'find' just unearthed in High Falls by John Novi, proprietor of the Depuy Canal House Tavern and first president of the D&H Canal Historical Society.

Restoration Project

Novi has just found the original gear house building on his Tavern property hard by the old canal; was able to identify it from old photographs. Along with other interested local residents, including Rondout Valley Middle School's assistant principal Peter Zegel, who also serves as chairman of the High Falls Fire Commissioners, the Depuy host plans to restore the gearhouse on Lock 16 of the D&H; will replace it back atop Lock 16 in High Falls, adjacent to the Tavern where it properly

POTPOURRI
 By JOAN L. WOINOSKI
 Christmas came early to the Capri last Saturday. At least that's what onlookers must've thought when they saw the glitter from dining room decor. Actually, the sparkling tinsel trim marked the golden anniversary of Ulster County Board of Realtors, and all the scintillating elegance is credited to Ruth Guido. What more can be said; anything Ruth puts her fingers to turns out to be a gala with impact similar to winds of hurricane Doria. (They're STILL talkin' 'bout her 25th wedding anniversary soiree down on-the-Hudson.)
 Would you like to know who was there? What's that ONLY if you KNOW them! Well, you can bet your bottom dollar anyone who's ever rented a camp, purchased a house, made a bank deposit, or taken a loan would've known at least two-thirds of the jolly jubilants. Briefly, there were the John Sanglins, the Walt Caunitz, the Julius Glassmans, the Bill Krums, the Ken Hyatts, the Vince Guidos, Jim Norton, VanDarrow.
 As well as Ed Carter, Bill Stall, Jim Devine, Dick Riseley, Marguerite Logan, Dorothy Naccarato, Adele Royael, Joe Fassbender, Ralph Carpino, Don Wright, Bob Kershaw, John Robbins, Bud Springer, Ben Krom — Jr. and Sr. — and on and on ad infinitum ... which sums up shindig as record-breakin' realtors repast.
 Area banks served as hospitality sponsors during capacity-crowded cocktail hour. Each gal received rose corsage, appropriately gilded, of course. ... all except Ruth Guido, that is. After makin' a mint of those dainty little tendrils, Ruth ... wouldn't've touched another gilded rosebud with a 10 ft. maypole.
 Alan Simmons, Joan Isgro, Ed O'Connor Jr., Linda Grimaldi, Cornelius Warren were installed as officers in an impressive ritual; deceased members were remembered in a separate ceremony, simple but touching. Too bad past president Sid Duncan could n't've been there but he's havin' a bout in hospital.
 Realtor Edna Sperling, wife of painting contractor Sam, was there along with son Frank and date, Colleen O'Rourke. Edna's realizing a life ambition, dipping her toes in political porridge. Running for alderman of 13th Ward, she's naturally makin' a few campaign promises. Does two pocketbooks, a chicken in every pot and a Grand Ville in each garage ring any bells?
 If guests were wonderin' why waitresses kept scurryin' to Sperling table after dinner, it's 'cause son Frank was fillin' up his doggie bag. Seems the Sperlings own a Doberman Pinscher that Sam claims is just a "baby at heart;" pet expects a little somethin' as a treat whenever family goes out on-the-town. (Just don't make any deliveries after dark.)
 Diners are well aware it's hard to beat Capri for banquet meals; prime ribs left nothin' to be desired. The only thing that kept buggin' us was why, oh, why was Frank Hermance sprinklin' sugar on his pasta!
 Multiple Listing Service (MLS) president Ken Hyatt who served as emcee kept the ball rollin' right along at pleasing pace. Personally, we think it was the wife of State Association President F. Richard Wolff who kept Ken on his toes. Mrs. W.'s a karate expert and with her at his right, Ken wasn't takin' any chances; it was either on-his-toes or on-his-heels and he chose the former. For the occasion, one might say MLS meant "Mighty Lively Speaker."

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

VOL. 2, NO. 1

This begins the second year of this "colyum" . . . sort of my own "Phase 2." Let's hope that it sees an increasing improvement in the state of the world in general and of our part of the world in particular. Without any "political" inferences, insinuations or interpretations, but speaking merely as a restaurant operator, I hope will operate a bit more evenhandedly than "Phase 1." Like all restaurants, we have been hard hit by the "one-sided" nature of the regulations which force us to maintain our own prices while the prices of the meats, seafood and produce we buy continue to rise unchecked . . . some main items, such as meats and seafood as much as 40% over the costs on which we based our own prices. "Robert's" has continued to hold the line, but we're waiting to see what happens next month. If the same discrepancy between control of wholesale ingredients and menu prices continues, we're liable to have to limit our menu to "soul food." In the meanwhile, let me treat myself to a different kind of "soul food," with a message from

VOX POPULI

"Our many thanks to all who made the surprise Anniversary Party for Dot and me . . . to 'Prop,' Ernie; and special thanks to Fran, May, Ruth, Doris, Jim, Francis and Fred Stratton, Donna and Tommy, and too many more to mention, for the cards and gifts. We will always cherish the memorable evening, surrounded by so many people willing to let us be King and Queen for a day . . . with the great sound of the Mark Garrison Duo making beautiful music, while a beautiful gent known to readers of Ernie's column as 'Papa Joe' handled the affair so exquisitely. To put the crown on Roberto's master-chefery, let me suggest that after dinner you report to the Lounge, where the late night crowd gathers, and let Joseph or Tom concoct your favorite drink . . . they perform miracles with a shaker. If you haven't dined at Roberto's before this, it's the place to find good food, good drink, nice people . . . truly, the 'House of Talent.'"

August Paul

Thanks for helping me fill the space, Augie, but tell me how do you like the place in general?

SCENE AT ROBERTO'S

The Annual Dinner of The Benedictine Alumni Association Hospital School of Nursing of Kingston (its 35th) was presided over by Sister Mary Cellista, Director of Nurses for 31 years; Sister Mary Henrietta; Sister Mary Ancilla, Mary Keating, Director of Insurance Program; Ida Ferrera, Director of Nurses; Dian Meikler, and Patricia Bruhn, Co Chairmen, and Helen Reedell, President of the Alumni Association. As Diane (Mrs. Richard) Sickler reported: "A lovely meal for a lovely occasion . . . and a time for reminiscence and remembrance." . . . At the same affair, Mary Tomassoni put the "Alumni Dinner" second as the attraction, with their tables also celebrating the 28th Birthday of Nan Bask, of Kingston; the others were from Saugerties: Donna Gambino, Sue Ann Paterson, Anne Eick, Patricia Thornton and Mary Tomassoni. Personal comment: "Great Meal . . . and also Great Drinks served by our dear friend Joe Amato; enjoyed the Music and the Congenial Atmosphere." . . . Mrs. Chris Gallop and Vic and Wilbur Matthews teamed up in a Farewell Dinner for John Rose, of Las Vegas, concluding his visit to our parts. We have Wilbur's word for it that everything was great, as usual, and that John Rose said it was very enjoyable . . . "different from Las Vegas." I say "vive le difference." If I had the lounge full of slot machines I wouldn't worry about "Phase 2" price controls! . . . We're so used to having George and Martha, of the famed Park Diner, dining with us we hardly realized that their table (on Oct. 10th) was celebrating their 38th Anniversary. With them were Mr. and Mrs. J. Scully and George Zanos. Thing is, they always act like they're celebrating something; more power to such a great couple. . . . Another Anniversary that evening was the 24th for Mr. and Mrs. George J. Habernig Jr., attended by Miss Kathy Lyons and George J. Habernig III . . . all of Kingston. Terse testimonial: "Dinner was very good." . . . The Birthday for Karl Grotzl Sr. of Kingston, graced by his wife Margaret, with Mary and Karl Grotzl Jr. and their sons, Michael and Jeffrey, of Esopus, plus Carol, Candy and Lance Miller, of Port Ewen, elicited an even terser comment: "DELICIOUS!" . . . From Tillson, Mary and Joseph Banach and Helen and John Banach celebrated the latter couple's 30th Anniversary, and John told us why: "My brother celebrated his Anniversary here, so we did likewise, and are pleased with the Food and Service; Scampi Excellent; so was Veal Parmigiana." As the old copy book said: One good Anniversary deserves another!

MISH AND MASH

Had the pleasure of a visit of some dear friends, Francis "Stretch" Hanoffee and his wonderful wife, Chez. Stretch is Democratic Chairman of Sullivan County, Supervisor of the town of Liberty, and does Public Relations for Grossinger's. No wonder he doesn't get too many chances to get away and "shmooze" for a while. Remember the way back, Stretch.

The "regulars" are back in full swing at our "Saturday Soiree and Shivarree," with Mark Garrison at The Hammond and Tommy Fitzgerald on the Drums. The past "Soiree" saw such staunch "Shivarreeers" as Angie and daughter Sharon, Dan Callaghan, Fran, the Frazers, Vic and Wilbur Matthews and (I have to flip over this!) Frankie Rinn, of Long Island, who enjoyed his introduction to our festivities so much the weekend before that he made the 100 mile round trip just to be with "my kind of People." You folks who live within easier driving distance, consider how lucky you are that you can get here in minutes instead of hours.

Word to the Wise: Books for Fall and Winter Parties are getting heavier; if you have some particular date in mind for a Party, check with Roberto's now! (P.S.: Our rates are still "Frozen" . . . from $5.50 for the regular Dinners, from $4.00 for special Group Dinners.)
